What Hit "Mex. Pete"?
Wives Must Flatter
Dipping Into Capital
Wise Dr. Hopkins
— By Arthur Brisbane —

Copyright.

Somebody sold 48,000 shares of Mexican Petroleum stock yesterday, and the day before somebody sold 54,000 shares. Wall Street cripples would like to know who did the selling.

Yesterday the stock sold at 103. Nine days ago it sold at 150. What hit it? That question sad-eyed losers would like to have answered.

One gentleman in Wall Street has been supplying every reporter that would listen with sad stories about Mexican Oil—all the wells turning to salt water, etc.

An event like the Mexican Petroleum panic might easily start a bigger panic and ruin millions where the Mexican Petroleum incident has ruined thousands.

Wall Street and those that play with the ticker will have trouble enough without panics cooked up to order.

In her latest interview Mrs. Stillman, who is doing for Wall Street what Herodotus did for antiquity, petted a Jersey cow belonging to a lawyer, tied a bandanna handkerchief around her bobbed hair and said:

"Some women's love is commercialized and their affections influenced by the size of an emerald. Men of money are always flattered and their vanity always responds to flattery."

There the lady spoke wisely, but she was mistaken when she said:

"Men's wives never bother them. Flattery of husbands is to married life what ball-bearings are to automobiles.

It would amaze the world to learn how many bald, pale-faced, nervous, little American male wrecks live happy because their wives persuade them that each is a combination of Antinous, Adonis and Hercules.

Mrs. Stillman thus describes the lady who lured her husband: "Oh, you know, she is one of those women who believe in hypnotism, mesmerism and ghosts and carries a rabbit's foot for luck, and all that."

All that is interesting, but more interesting is the intensely intimate knowledge that each lady in a triangle seems to have of the other lady in the triangle. When the lady of the thousand Models brings her contribution to American history you'll be surprised (and so will Mrs. Stillman) at her information.

The Northern Pacific Railroad did—[illegible] year—"dips into our [illegible] dividend." as

When you "dip" into your capital to pay a dividend that hasn't been earned, to stockholders that do no work for the railroad, that is respectable "high finance." But if you suggest dipping into capital to pay workmen money that they have earned, that is "vile Socialism," on at the very least "bad business."

The horse is vanishing, out of date, doesn't pay. It is the day of machines, slaves that work with out suffering, do not eat, sleep or need attention when idle.

In all London and the five countries adjoining, there are fewer than 100,000 horses. In Mesopotamia, far off, where civilization started betw en the Tigris and the Euphrates when the English were living in swamps, with their bodies painted blue, are not living at all, the British Empire now owns 50,000 heavy draft horses.

Those horses were taken there to fight when nobody cared how much money was spent. Now, their usefulness past, they will be put to death because it would not pay to bring them back to England and because natives would treat them too cruelly, starving them in the deserts if they were left to the natives. Thirty thousand fine horses not worth shipping. Who would have thought it twenty-five years ago?

Wise Dr. Hopkins, at the University of Pennsylvania commencement, says: "Education is the only thing that will curb discontent."

Men, educated, know that our chief discontent should be with ourselves. They know that bloody revolution is only a symptom, no cure for anything. The "legislative hall, court room and prison," as Dr. Hopkins says, are powerless to cure evils. No laws would make savages in the Congo anything but savages. But education might change them in a few thousand years as it has changed people here.

If men could be encouraged to read and think, education made interesting and real, what is commonly called "discontent" the ignorance that breeds out into violence, would cease to worry civilization.

The education, needless to say, should begin at the top, with profiteers—[illegible]—of labor, the monopolist, great corporation heads that stupidly do all they can to destroy a system so profitable to them.

BANKER'S WIFE ARRESTED IN DIVORCE CASE

SEIZURE OF GUNS FOILS SINN FEIN

Shipment Intended for Uprising This Summer—Britain to Send Note to U. S.

London, June 17.—The seizure of between 500 and 600 machine guns at Hoboken, as the result of disclosures made by British secret service agents, completely breaks down the plans of the Irish republican army for a great offensive against the crown forces in Ireland next Autumn, according to official statement issued by the Irish office this afternoon.

[illegible] Britain will address a friendly note to the United States requesting that the utmost possible watch be exercised in the future to prevent unarmed shipments of arms and ammunition to Ireland for use against the crown forces by the republicans.

[illegible] secret service agents are in America, and are keeping under surveillance Irishmen who are suspected of being in league with the Sinn Fein. Scotland Yard is thus kept in touch with the movements of the Sinn Fein agents.

The Sinn Fein sympathizers are said to make their headquarters in New York.

The Irish office today announced the capture of documents revealing that "Dick" McKee, former commander-in-chief of the Irish Republican army, had informed the district commanders that he intended to purchase Thompson machine guns.

Mulcahy had ordered training schools to instruct Republican soldiers in the use of the machine guns, according to the Irish office.

Attempt to Destroy Carnegie Library

Dublin, June 17.—The Carnegie Library at Castle Island bore marks of Sinn Fein warfare today, and an attempt had been made to destroy it with fire.

There was a terrific burst of firing along the banks of the Liffey River during the night when Republicans attacked "Black and Tan" policemen guarding the ruins of the custom house. Shots were exchanged for some time before the attackers were driven off.

London, June 17.—Many raids in which telegraph and telephone wires were cut and railroad property was destroyed were made here today, Scotland Yard attributed them to Sinn Feiners.

Seven men, all alleged to be Irish republican sympathizers, were arrested at Bromley. The police threw out a vast dragnet forty miles past London in an effort to round up the depredators.

Following the destruction of railway signal boxes at Bromley, a fight developed in which one alleged Sinn Feiner was wounded.

Railway traffic in the London district, already crippled by the coal strike, was brought to a virtual standstill by the burning of signal boxes.

A signal man at Clapton attempted to resist the raiders and was shot. Signal boxes on the railways at Harwell and Barking were also destroyed. Similar raids were made at Acton Uxbridge, Bromley, South Allan and Harnes.

The police at Bromley fought a revolver duel with the raiders and it is believed several of the Sinn Feiners were wounded.

STILLMAN TRIES TO DODGE PUBLIC

PUBLICITY FEARED BY BANKER

Stillman Wants Date of His Appearance Kept Secret to Avoid Crowd

Poughkeepsie, June 17.—Cornelius J. Sullivan, attorney for James A. Stillman, notified Referee Daniel J. Gleason that James A. Stillman did not want to appear for cross-examination on June 20.

Sullivan had promised to produce Mr. Stillman on that date. Then he said that Mr. Stillman had expressed annoyance at the fact that newspapermen had learned of his scheduled appearance.

Sullivan said, preferred not to meet the crowds of curious people who would gather to see him enter the referee's hearings. He said that Stillman particularly desired to avoid running the gantlet of photographers, reporters and motion picture operators who would greet him.

For these reasons Sullivan pleaded for permission to withdraw from his stipulation to produce Stillman on June 23.

CHAUFFEUR NAMED IN CHARGE

Mrs. Barrett, Wife of Brockton Cashier Suing for Divorce, Pleads Not Guilty

Mrs. Mabel Barrett of No. 146 Summer street, Brockton, was released in sureties of $400 after pleading not guilty in Suffolk County Superior Court to an indictment warrant charging a statutory offence with Jane Forbes, the chauffeur-co-respondent named by her husband, George A. Barrett, cashier of the First National Bank of Brockton, in his suit for divorce.

Mrs. Barrett, who was represented by Attorney John H. Sullivan of Taunton, surrendered herself to Sergeant Carey of the district attorney's office and was arraigned before Judge Brown. It is expected that the criminal action will not be called until the divorce suit has been disposed of.

The warrant charges, as does her husband's divorce action, that private detectives surprised her and the

HARRISON SCORES HARVEY AND SIMS

Colonel George Harvey, ambassador to Great Britain, was characterized as a weather-cock, sent to Europe because he could do less harm there to President Harding and the Republican party, by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, speaking at the "night before" dinner of the Northern Club in the Charlestown High School Building. The speaker also referred to Colonel Harvey and Admiral Sims as the Gold Dust Twins and a pair of "chatterboxes."

HONOR MEMORY OF JOSEPH WARREN

A large crowd attended the fifth annual exercises commemorative of Major-General Joseph Warren, today under the auspices of the Roxbury Historical Society at the monument in Joseph Warren square, Roxbury. Governor Cox, the chief speaker, laid a wreath of flowers at the base of the monument. The formal exercises were held in the Church of the New Jerusalem, facing the square.

AGREES TO MOVE OUT OF STATE

Court Dismisses Charges Against Widow and Attorney's Wife

Mrs. Mabel Wilson of No. 64 Astor street, Back Bay, accused of being "the other woman" in a peculiar love triangle, has agreed to exile herself from Massachusetts.

She promised Judge Hayden in Roxbury Court tolay to leave the State before the end of the week, whereupon the charge against her was dismissed.

Mrs. Elizabeth Patterson of No. 35 Dartmouth street, Somerville, wife of an attorney, shot at and missed Mrs. Wilson on June 16.

She then grappled with Mrs. Wilson, whom she accused of enticing her husband. The altercation was in the Wilson woman's apartments. Mrs. Patterson suffered scalp wounds in her struggle with her alleged rival.

Mutual charges of assault were preferred. In dismissing the assault charge against Mrs. Wilson Judge Hayden also dismissed that against Mrs. Patterson. The latter was in court, with a bandage around her head.

Winifield S. Patterson, a lawyer with offices at No. 40 Court street, declared at the time of the fight between the women that his wife was insanely jealous.

Mrs. Wilson is a pretty widow. She had been established in the Astor street apartment but a few hours when lawyer's wife found her.

DRIVER RUN OVER BY HIS OWN TRUCK

Charles Sharaf, twenty-four years old, of No. 232 Felsway, Medford, jumped off the truck which he was driving on Atlantic avenue and was run over by his own truck, receiving a fractured leg. Harry Agelson, an assistant on the truck, took Sharaf to the Relief Hospital.

FIVE CHARLESTOWN SALOONS RAIDED

The Charlestown police made five raids on near-beer saloons in the Sullivan square district, one of which proved a success in the saloon of John C. King, No. 838 Medford street, where three pints of liquor and two quarts of wine were confiscated.

Men With Foresight Are Buying Homes

Foresight is common sense exercised at the opportune time. Property will never be cheaper. It is bound to grow more valuable.

Foresight, then, means buying a home now and taking advantage of the natural increase in value.

LAWYER FIGHTS INSANE CHARGE

Allegations of Murder, Robbery and Conspiracy in Move to Commit Atty. Renfrew

Amazing charges and counter-charges are expected in the Newton District Court tomorrow when Robert W. Renfrew begins his fight to avoid commitment to the Waltboro State Hospital for the insane.

Renfrew, a lawyer, is alleged by the police to be the directing head of a State-wide campaign devoted to freeing wealthy people detained in insane asylums.

It is anticipated that startling evidence regarding this campaign will be produced by the State.

Renfrew is expected to repeat in court the sensational charges made two days before he was taken to Boston Psychopathic Hospital for observation—charges in which he accused leading business men and

Charlestown in Gala Dress for Bunker Hill Fete

Charlestown is today celebrating the 146th anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill, better known in that district as the "Glorious Seventeenth," with patriotic exercises, athletic games, open house celebrations, dedication of a square and a military parade in the afternoon.

All the public buildings, clubhouses and many private residences are in gay holiday array.

The celebration was ushered in last night with three banquets, at which men prominent in religious, National State and city affairs delivered addresses.

The bonfire, thirty feet high, was lighted by Mayor Peters on the Sullivan square playground. The torch was presented to Mayor Peters by the director of the celebration, James H. Brennan.

CASHIER'S WIFE IS ARRESTED

chauffeur who is employed by Frank Brewster, wealthy Commonwealth avenue attorney, in the room of a Pinckney street lodging house on the night of May 4 last.

WIFE CHARGES "FRAME-UP."

Brockton church and society circles were stirred by the divorce action of the husband that followed later. Mrs. Barrett promptly countered with a suit for divorce, charging cruel and abusive treatment and habitual drunkenness. She was later granted $150 a month and counsel fees pending trial.

Forbes met Mrs. Barrett in Brockton last Summer. They are alleged to have been frequently together thereafter. Correspondence is said to have been intercepted and Mrs. Barrett, to have promised to give up the chauffeur.

Forbes is quoted as saying that he was inclined to believe that he had been "framed" by Mrs. Barrett and that after putting her on a train for Brockton she had followed and begged him to take her to the Pinckney street home of her woman friend, where, he claimed, he had never been before.

Mrs. Barrett is the daughter of George E. Fairbanks, Brockton and East Weymouth shoe manufacturer.

NORTH SHORE BRIDGE BURNS

Traffic Diverted by Fire at Point of Pines Structure; Loss $100,000

Automobile traffic to and from the North Shore was today diverted over the old Lynn turnpike as a result of a fire of undetermined origin that partially destroyed the Saugus River bridge at Point of Pines, connecting Revere and Lynn.

Fire departments of both Lynn and Revere responded to alarms, but the blaze was confined to the Shoe City by opening the draw. Nearly 500 feet of the structure was consumed, according to the police.

The blaze, which started on the Lynn side, was discovered by Drawtender W. J. Murray, who telephoned Sergeant Fred L. Ordway of the Metropolitan Park police. A squad of State officers was rushed to the bridge, and in the meantime alarms were sent in from both sides of the structure.

Two streams of automobiles, flowing both ways, were held up and the police ordered the drivers back the way they came. The fire was eventually extinguished by the Lynn firemen, the damage being estimated at $100,000.

The bridge was the property of the State, and was a connecting link in the main artery to the North Shore and Maine. Its closing means a considerable increase in the first and second class mail matter since the new road was built.

STILLMAN TRIES TO DODGE

Counsel Notifies Referee He Does Not Want to Appear at Hearing June 28

Brennan, attorney for Mrs. Stillman, and John E. Mack, attorney for Baby Guy Stillman, said he would give them a week's notice in advance.

Mrs. Stillman's lawyers struck a blow at the evidence by which the so-called Beauvais letters were admitted into the divorce proceedings as evidence against the wife.

Irene Kelly, the maid whose alleged recognition of the Indian guide's handwriting was the basis on which the famous Exhibit B was admitted, testified when recalled for cross-examination that she had only seen the guide writing once and then it was an address written on another letter.

In an attempt to strengthen her testimony she said that she had seen two letters from Beauvais to Mrs. Stillman when she looked into Mrs. Stillman's hand-bag. She read the letters, the maid said, but she did not remember the contents.

KELLY GLAD TO QUIT.

In the referee's chambers Mrs. Stillman listened with obvious satisfaction as John E. Mack racked, by cross-examination, the witnesses on whose previous testimony her husband had built up the "peculiar structure of charges against her and the baby."

Bernard Kelly, former superintendent of the Stillman estate at Pleasantville, was the first casualty of the day. He is the man who asserted he hoped the woman would die, and he helped her toward that, though he fought against it.

The former superintendent had sworn that he did not know where Mary Kelly, one of the points of contact along the line of the alleged Beauvais letters, was located. But today he admitted that he did know where she was and at the moment was in the room with him. Mr. Kelly appeared extremely relieved when Mack permitted him to quit the stand.

Came then Irene Kelly, wife of Bernard and a former maid in the Pleasantville estate. Irene admitted first that she and her husband were no friends of Mrs. Stillman and had not been since the day they lost their jobs at Pleasantville, for which the witness appeared to blame the wife.

VISITED WEEK-ENDS.

She admitted that Mrs. Stillman had nursed her through a severe illness, had paid her hospital bills and had showered other kindnesses on her.

She stated that Stillman had visited Pleasantville nearly every week-end during 1919, the year following the birth of the disputed baby.

Mrs. Kelly gave the clean-cut impression, despite the reluctance of her statements, that the banker and his wife were far from estranged after the disputed child's birth, though other witnesses had declared in direct testimony that Stillman had been told the boy was illegitimate.

Then, she said, she handed letters to Mrs. Stillman, letters that she believed came from Fred Beauvais, the guide co-respondent, for she thought she recognized his handwriting. This line of testimony led to the marking of more letters for identification, it was said. But the exhibits are understood to have been all selected from those made public in the Boston American recently.

The elusive Mary Kelly, the mysterious maid, who is not related to the Kellys above described, was then put on the witness-stand.

PROVED A FIND.

She proved a veritable find for the defence. She contradicted on several important points the testimony of Bernard Kelly. Bernard had sworn that she showed him an alleged Beauvais letter to Mrs. Stillman in November, 1919, but Mary insisted that she had shown him two letters—one in February or March of 1919 and the other in May or June of that year.

One of these letters was exhibit B, the only letter accepted as evidence to date and the first one made public. This communication is dated May 29, 1919, thus bearing out the maid's statement and discounting the ex-superintendent's. And so it has gone through most of the proceedings, one witness building up a framework of evidence only for another to strike at its foundations.

Another of the servant squad was Margaret McDonough, who was Alexander's nurse before the secret attack on Mrs. Stillman disrupted the family. On direct examination, by William J. Rand she testified she saw Mrs. Stillman come out of the bathroom in the Blue cottage at Pleasantville in a kimona one morning between January 28 and February 6, 1919.

She said that on that morning she looked into Mrs. Stillman's room and saw that her bed was made and evidently had not been slept in. Fred Beauvais, the witness asserted, was sleeping in an adjoining room. A smile, half amusement, half incredulity, hovered on Mrs. Stillman's face as the witness testified.

Dr. Mayo Denounces Stillman Case

By International News Service.

Chicago, June 17.—Dr. Charles Mayo of the Rochester (Minn.) clinic, found ardent supporters here today following his flaying of moral conditions which lead to such cases as the famous Stillman divorce suit.

"We may feel that a crisis threatens established, moral, social and economic principles when we view the Stillman case in New York," said Dr. Mayo, addressing alumni of Northwestern University.

Dr. Mayo argued that education of children between the ages of six and fourteen in the principles of religion and eugenics as well as the three "R's" is needed to eliminate much of the illiteracy and consequent immorality in America.

ASKS RETURN OF ENGAGEMENT RING

Worcester, June 17.—A $500 diamond engagement ring is involved in proceedings brought here against Mrs. Evelyn H. Van Lier of Winchendon by Robert Stone of Fitzwilliam N. H. Stone wants the ring back. He alleged he gave it to the Winchendon woman in 1919 in consideration of her alleged promise to marry him and that she failed to carry out her part of the agreement. Last year she married Van Lier.

the churches and other buildings and the firing of the national salute at the Navy Yard opened the celebration this morning.

Eight hundred children from the eighth grades of the parochial and public schools will participate in a program of patriotic exercises at 9 o'clock this morning on the Bunker Hill Monument grounds.

During an intermission Colonel William Prescott's statue will be adorned with a wreath and two flags by the pupils of the Prescott School.

Pupils of the Warren Grammar School will decorate the spot where General Warren fell.

DEDICATE HERO SQUARE.

The second portion of the children's program will include pantomime and pageantry by the pupils of Lida Vilas Wyman and other talented juveniles.

The Jefferson Club of Charlestown will provide ice cream and cake to hundreds of children from 10 a. m. to noon in the wardroom at Bunker Hill and Lexington street.

Louis S. Bangs square, at the junction of Harvard, Prescott and Devens streets, named in honor of a young Charlestown man who fell in the World War, will be dedicated at 12:30. The dedication will be under the direction of the Company B, 101st Infantry Association.

Corporal John J. Kelley will be the chairman. Speakers will include Congressman Peter F. Tague, Captain John F. Buckley, commander of Bunker Hill Post 26 of the American Legion; James T. Mahoney, commander of Charlestown Post 544, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Sergeant George E. Wilson of Company B, 101st Infantry; Captain David Brickley, City Councilor, who will accept the square in behalf of the city of Boston.

Sergeant Warwick V. Harris and Sergeant James O'Donnell, two army "buddies" of Corporal Bangs, will unveil the marker. The 101st Infantry Veterans' Band will render music and "taps" will be sounded.

MAYOR WILL SPEAK.

A patriotic demonstration on the Monument grounds will be conducted at 5 o'clock in the evening, just after the military parade. Michael L. Fahey is chairman of the committee. The speakers scheduled include Mayor Peters, Congressman Tague, Fire Commissioner John R. Murphy and Chairman Mullen of the Boston Americanization Committee.

The military parade, the big feature of the celebration, will start from Bunker Hill and Elm streets at 2:30 p. m.

HUB MEN TRAIL PEGGY'S GEMS

Local Detectives Claim Missing Joyce Jewels Are Now in London

A former actress now married and a mute acquaintance are in possession of "Peggy" Hopkins Joyce's missing jewels, valued at $750,000, it was learned today.

The woman and her acquaintance are living in a suburb of London, England, and are under the surveillance of Boston detectives and Scotland Yard men.

How the woman and man came into possession of the gems is known to the authorities, and a bitter legal fight will be made by J. Stanley Joyce, "Peggy's" husband, to regain them as soon as the international legal machinery is set in motion.

A conference was held today in Boston at which were present two detectives and two business men.

Detective Thomas J. Holmes, one of the men, admitted that the meeting concerned the missing gems. He admitted that the object of the meeting dealt with their departure for London at an early date to get the jewelry.

APPRECIATE AID IN BIG REUNION

Editor Boston American:

In behalf of the Centenary Committee of the English High School I wish to extend our very grateful acknowledgment of your courtesy and co-operation during the celebration which is just closing.

The space given us by your paper has been very largely instrumental in bringing together the splendid gathering of graduates and former pupils of the English High School, and fostering the spirit of loyalty and devotion so manifested during the exercises. Without your helpful assistance the exercises could not have been nearly so successful. We are deeply grateful. Yours very truly, HAROLD D. BORNSTEIN,

Chairman Press Committee.

LEERING GHOST PLAYS JAZZ WHILE WOMEN QUAKE WITH FEAR

SPOOK HAS HOUSE IN PANIC

Spirit of Dead Grandfather Blamed by Manchester Girl for Nocturnal Visits

By HAZEL CANNING.

Manchester, N. H., June 17.—When a spooky, angry, great white ghost stands across the street from you, in the wee sma' hours and shakes his fist at—by—you're naturally a—vay!

And when a great, white, heartless, leery spirit grins in your doorway and knocks down your nine best drinking goblets, and starts playing tunes, same kind, on your pet grandfather and chases your cat, and breaks your clock, and runs off with half the works and knocks between your partitions—why—you send for the police.

SPIRIT OF GRANDFATHER.

This is the kay-p ghost that has been treating three long, lean women here in Manchester. The women are Mrs. Mabel Morrill, Mrs. Abe Allen and Miss Frances Stewart. Now the ghost, as Miss Stewart says, has been a little surmises, is her dead grandfather, George F. Bosher, late wealthy real estate operator of Manchester.

Bosher died last Saturday. He was buried Monday. "And since then he has given neither his granddaughter nor me, nor anyone living in this house any peace," said Mrs. Abe Allen, friend of Miss Stewart.

Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Morrill, who all live in the same house, No. 329 Manchester avenue, tell of the happenings. Said Mrs. Allen:

"I never believed in ghosts before, but say—"

"Yes, yes"—interpolated Mrs. Morrill, her eyes heavy from lack of sleep since the ghost started paying his nightly visits, "—what we know about it, say!"

BOSHE CLOCK IN PIECES.

"The first night," the two women agreed, "the ghost merely mixed things up on the dressing table. He knocked our white ivory toilet clock to the floor. The clock was broken into five parts, still it goes.

"We found the clock away at the farthest end of the house," said Mrs. Allen explained. "Then as soon as the clock was quiet, the phonograph started, right out of the darkness.

"And such tunes as that phonograph played, when it started winding. Say, dearie, nothing but an angry old grandfather could have screamed that talking machine. It played a combination of gospel hymns and jazz. And in the room where the darkness was thick enough to cut with a knife, a spooky old face would peer at us very grim to the bed, and eyes of brimstone would leer at us. Say, dearie, I'm afraid to move. We can't stand spooks like that."

In the meantime all Manchester, except the police, now believes in ghosts, and there's terrified whispers at their shop by day, and wonder how long they're going to be haunted by night.

PROPHECY AND $30 FINE GO TOGETHER

Worcester, June 17.—Judge Samuel Wing predicted that James Galloway of Charlestown would find himself in another court if he succeeded in driving his truck at the rate of speed alleged by Officer Doble of Shrewsbury, who said the defendant was driving at forty miles an hour. With the prophecy went a fine of $30.

CITY RECOGNITION OF Y D REUNION URGED

MAYFLOWER COMING WITH BIG CATCH

The Boston schooner Mayflower is expected to arrive in Boston soon with about 125,000 pounds of codfish, according to a telegram from Captain J. Henry Larkin. The maiden trip of America's hope in the next international schooner race has been an unusually good one.

"If a snowman had a palate," John Johnks, "that's what he would set him afire with enthusiasm. It would make a Scotchman extravagant in praise." The sanitary coated wrapper keeps it fresh on warmest days.

Lolita Armour Will Wed in Her "Left Overs"

Lolita Armour, the erstwhile "Poor Little Rich Girl," whose millions join those of young John Mitchell when they are married tomorrow.

Chicago, June 17. — Garbed in the simplest of wedding gowns Miss Lolita Armour, one of the richest young women in the world, will be married tomorrow to John Ogden Mitchell, Jr., a childhood playmate and himself heir to more than $10,000,000. The marriage, it is said, is a pure love match. It will join two great fortunes, for that of the Armours is estimated at more than $40,000,000.

Lolita Armour was born a cripple. For years she has suffered from congenital dislocation of the hip, and was known the country over as "The Poor Little Rich Girl."

WAS WAR WORKER.

Until she was six years old she was unable to move except in her wheel chair. Then Dr. Adolph Lorenz of Vienna, exponent of bloodless surgery, was called to Chicago and by a series of operations reset the dislocated hip.

Miss Armour is now about twenty-four years old and has hardly a trace of her childhood trouble. She is fond of outdoor sports and during the war was chairman of the National Service School for Women, looking after the welfare of soldiers and sailors.

NO JEWELS AT WEDDING.

"I intend to be married in left-overs," she said. "My things are going to be very simple and so is the wedding ceremony. I am not going to wear a single jewel at the wedding—at least I don't expect to, although I may if John wants me to."

Her fiance is the son of John Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust & Savings Bank. He was graduated from Yale and served during the war in the United States aviation service.

HARDING MAY VISIT HAWAII

Washington, June 17.—President Harding will visit Hawaii next year "if he can possibly do so."

He gave this assurance to Alexander Hume Ford, secretary-director of the Pan-Pacific Union of which the President is the honorary head, and Wallace R. Farrington, the newly appointed Governor of Hawaii, who called at the White House to invite him. He was asked to make his visit during the series of Pan-Pacific conferences that will be held in Honolulu in 1923.

An entertainment and dancing were also features.

FIVE BODIES TAKEN FROM TRAIN WRECK

Crawford, Neb., June 17.—The exact number of dead in the Cottonwood Creek Railway disaster was unknown today, although five bodies had been taken from coaches of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway train which plunged through a caging bridge. Swollen waters hampered rescue efforts. Three of the coaches were plunged into the current.

MACKAY CANNOT RECALL NUPTIAL

Judge "Dimly" Remembers Marrying Rich Clubman and Chorus Girl in 1915

New York, June 17.—Donald Francis Mackay, the wealthy clubman who is credited with having two wives without the formality of a divorce, has no recollection of a marriage to Olga Harting, a Ziegfeld chorus girl.

Mrs. Olga Harting Mackay is suing him for divorce. He is living in this city with his second wife, who was Mrs. J. M. Galloway.

Judge Wolf of Newark, N. J., said he dimly recalls that the couple appeared before him as he was about to open court on May 24, 1915, attired as though they had come from a ball or long drawn out reception. He added:

"I do not think I should ever have thought of it again had not the New York lawyers come to me several months ago. Everything was proper in the matter, so far as I know."

The facts seem to be that Mackay and the former Ziegfeld Roof girl lived together in No. 545 West Fifty-first street. Then they drifted apart, the stage beauty finally deciding to go back to California.

Mackay seems to have forgotten that she lived. Last Fall the engagement of Mackay to Mrs. Galloway, herself a daughter of California, was announced. They were married on last December 22 at the former Mrs. Galloway's country place in Westport, Ct.

Then Olga Harting Mackay appeared from her retirement in California and sued Mrs. Mackay for alienating her husband's affections. That suit was quickly settled, it appears, to the disposition appears not to be satisfactory, for Olga Harting Mackay has sued for divorce, naming the present Mrs. Mackay.

State Helpless to Fight Caterpillars

Acres of valuable fruit and shade trees are in danger of destruction by the ravages of the tent caterpillar, and the State is helpless against it.

Commissioner of Conservation William A. L. Bazeley today appealed to the orchard owners to make the fight themselves, in co-operation with local authorities. The State has no appropriation to fight the caterpillar. It is a "local problem."

Bazeley advised the owners to apply to local moth superintendents for arsenate of lead and the implements for spraying.

ONLY 300 NEED RELIEF AT PUEBLO

Washington, June 17. — Published reports of exaggerations in regard the $500,000 relief fund being raised for Pueblo, Co., and stating that 1,500 persons of Pueblo were unable to support themselves and that much of the food and equipment rushed there had not been used.

25,000 PEOPLE SEE BROCKTON PAGEANT

Brockton, June 17.—Brockton's historical pageant depicting the growth of the city for the past 100 years was repeated at the Brockton Fair Grounds before 25,000 people, including members of the Mayors' Club of Massachusetts and their wives, who were guests of Mayor Roger Keith. The visiting executives were taken on a tour of inspection of the larger Brockton enterprises. They later had dinner at the Commercial Club.

LIES THWARTED PEACE PLAN

Hapgood Tells of Scheidemann's Revelations of Socialist Efforts

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.
Staff Correspondent of Boston American.

Washington, June 17.—Everybody knows who Philip Scheidemann is. He is the person who as head of the Conservative wing of the Social-Democratic party was cursed by the militarists for opposing the war and cursed by the Communists for not preventing it.

NORMAN HAPGOOD

He is the person who was praised by America as the leader for opposing German militarism until we went into the war ourselves, after which time Scheidemann was held to be an ally of the Kaiser, the militarists, and the devils generally.

This Scheidemann has written a pamphlet which adds to our knowledge of the course of diplomacy during the war. He has already written a book, but the pamphlet brings out documents not printed in the book and puts some disputed matters beyond doubt.

Even in this fast moving age some people still remember that the Socialists tried to hold a conference at Stockholm in June, 1917, to see if it was necessary to fight the war to a finish, in order to usher in the best of all possible worlds, which we are now enjoying.

ALL GOVERNMENTS OPPOSED.

All the governments opposed this conference, including our own. The governments all held that no good could come out of anything except government officials. They held that for a mass of private citizens representing nothing but a strong party in the principal belligerent countries, to get a passport to talk over the situation and find out what the real issues were, was insolence and probably treason.

What could these private citizens know about the secret treaties binding the governments together? What did they know about their own welfare? So we just called the German Socialists spies of the military party and let it go at that.

Scheidemann's pamphlet throws light particularly on what followed Stockholm and the failure of the effort. Early in July a meeting took place in Berne between the Kaiser and the Papal Nuncio, Monsignor Pacelli.

KAISER'S PLEA TO VATICAN.

The Emperor complained that the Vatican was not doing enough to bring about peace. He praised what the Pope had done and said if he was a disgrace for the church not to do as much. The Vatican acted on the suggestion and made its well-known peace effort.

The German militarists were as anxious to thwart this effort as the entente governments were. They proposed to the Kaiser an ultimatum which the principal laid down by the Sunday school boy who was asked to define a "fact." "A fact," he said, "is an absolute" ation unto the Lord, but a very present help in time of need."

The ultimatum submitted at Vienna submitted to the Kaiser a document purporting to show that the Vatican's real motive was to create a threat of revolution in Italy, which it was thought would overthrow the Papacy. This Italian revolution was to follow one in England, which was scheduled for right away.

INFLUENCED BY LIES.

The Kaiser fell for all this and went back to the militarist party. Therefore by the time the Pope's appeal was sent, out, August 14, the chance of success had passed. The Reichstag approved the committee to consider the Pope's appeal, and Scheidemann was appointed chairman of the committee.

Kuhlmann, the same gentleman who made the foul attempt to embroil us with Mexico last year, now proposed another falsehood in time of need. He told Scheidemann that negotiations were on between the German and British governments direct, and that peace would be arranged at once if we would be so much to clear up history, and among other things to put an end to the legend that the German majority Socialists were acting as a screen for the militarists. It is obvious that what forced the unwilling masses on both sides to go on another year and get a "clean peace" (to use the phrase) was that the man in office on both sides was simply determined that it should go on, and the German Socialists were as helpless as the Pope, the French people or the German people.

The coming historian of the war has been helped by the pamphlet of Scheidemann. That historian ought to be as ironical as Francois Marie Arouet, called Voltaire.

ARRESTED AGAIN IN RACE TRACK CASE

Montreal, June 17.—For a second time Arthur Eremont, former Parliament member, is under arrest in connection with the race track swindles in which Michael Connolly, a Montreal contractor, lost $135,000. Eremont's second arrest was on the request of the Buffalo police, who want to question him further.

He will oppose extradition as he has already been acquitted in Montreal and Buffalo on charges in connection with the case.

DARTMOUTH ATHLETE WINS SCHOLARSHIP

Manchester, N. H., June 17.—Bergert Emanuel Jacobsen, a member of this year's graduating class at Manchester High and prominent in athletics in the school, has been awarded the first Dartmouth scholarship given by the recently formed Manchester Dartmouth Alumni Association.

Gunmen Get Courage for Daring Crime From 'Coke'

In his fourth installment on Boston's trafffic in illegal drugs, former Assistant District Attorney Webber tells of the influence of "coke" on crime.

Cocaine plays a prominent part in crime and often is used by gunmen to give them courage, he declares. Further, he states, that cocaine is used surreptitiously by white slavers to hold their victims.

By ABRAHAM C. WEBBER.
(Former Assistant District Attorney of Suffolk County.)
(Copyright, 1921, by Press Publishing Co. (The New York Evening World).)

The present article deals with the influence of the the use of dope over crime, and also gives some idea of the [illegible] cocaine addict as distinguished from the morphinist.

Very early in my years of experience in the district attorney's office it became evident that cocaine played a very large part in certain forms of crime. Shoplifters, pickpockets or sneak thieves, or "dips," as they are called among criminals. The great majority of these are "cokeys," as cocaine users are called. Moreover, it is said, because cocaine in powdered form has a peculiar snow-like glint.

These criminals here together, operate in crowds or "mobs," and the leader is the one who does the actual pilfering covering the activities of the gang, and requires an unusual amount of agility and courage of a certain kind. It is common for the "wiser" to fill himself up with cocaine before demonstrating his salesmanship.

Abraham C. Webber.

GIVES FALSE COURAGE.

Cocaine causes unusual exhilaration and creates a false courage and a disregard for consequences; thus a "coke fiend" will do the most daring things and often get away by the very boldness of the enterprise. There is no doubt in my mind that many of the gunmen robberies can be traced to a criminal under the influence of cocaine.

I have heard that medical students have been known to take a little "coke" preparatory to their final examinations to stimulate their "brains."

President Taft, in his message to Congress during his term, called attention to the fact that 150,000 ounces of cocaine were imported annually into this country, more of it than used to make deadish criminals of human beings.

The use of cocaine is a dissipation rather than a habit, and its discontinuance is not attended with the sufferings occasioned by the taking away of morphine.

CAN GET ALONG WITHOUT IT.

If a "cokey" cannot get cocaine that is usually all there is to it—he gets along without it, and the world is usually safer. Cocaine has been "tried out" by the medical world and medical opinion has undergone a great change about the safety of its use. It is known as a tissue destroyer. The use of cocaine by sniffing through the nose finally results in destruction of the septum, the partition between the nostrils.

In dentistry cocaine has been almost universally displaced by novocaine, which is a synthetic preparation having no relation whatever to cocaine. When used in operations—mostly of the eye—cocaine is applied in the mildest sort of solution—very little going a great way—and usually under the control of only the highest class of surgeon.

[illegible] cocaine quite the style to get cocaine to the public in the form of so-called catarrh cures. The public will remember when "Cuban Catarrh" was very popular and a good seller and catarrh was a popular disease in certain circles. The Boston American and other papers, after a determined campaign, stamped this evil out very effectively.

CAUSED SOROKIAN MURDER.

I was once told that a member of Congress from Massachusetts, suffering from catarrh, very narrowly escaped the disastrous consequences of the use of cocaine by being informed by his physician in Washington of such a preparation, which was giving temporary relief, was nothing but a cocaine preparation that would ultimately do him considerable physical damage.

The Sorokian murder, which occurred in Harrison avenue, South End, some seven or eight years ago, is one of the most striking acts of a "coke" morphine fiend, whose name I will not give, because the man has since returned to private life after having been released on parole, and is making an honest livelihood. Unfortunately it took an innocent human life to bring about the reformation of this morphinist.

As to morphine, while it is not considered a direct incentive to crime to the extent that cocaine is, yet morphinists, driven to extremity to secure their drug—the will power being undermined—may be expected to commit crime.

MORPHINE LEADS TO 'COKE.'

The undermining of the will itself leads to removing the barrier for any that obliviation, home-life and religion erects about the individual. Moral resistance disappears. This is particularly true in the case of women.

There is also a connection in the use of morphine that tends to make the morphinist also a "Cokey." This is the combination that is bound to yield trouble in large dividends. Addicts claim that cocaine used with morphine tends to relieve the depressing feeling that they sometimes experience and eventually they go to the use of it without any judgment. The depressing and melancholic aftereffects often experienced by the addicts are mostly the result of excessive dosage of morphine taken by irresponsible addicts.

The unscrupulous doctor and dope seller encourages the use of cocaine as an additional source of revenue.

"PEDLING" MEANEST CRIME.

I cannot imagine a meaner crime on the list than the pedler of cocaine, because it is not furnished for the purpose of allaying suffering, as in the case of a morphinist, but it is to the habit of placing loaded and dangerous weapons" in the hands of irresponsible persons, resulting in untold public damage. I have often thought that a public reward may well be offered for the arrest and conviction of the "coke" pedler.

Another source of crime attributable to the added is that of breaking and entering drug stores and physicians' offices to secure drugs. It is claimed that drugs are made use of by the "white slavers" in securing and holding their victims. Medical authorities say that the long confirmed coke addict ultimately becomes a prey to hallucinations and that he frequently arms himself against imaginary foes, and that while in this condition is apt to commit murder.

SEARCH ALL AT COURT DOOR

Every Man at Sacco Trial in Dedham Is Held Up by Police

Unusual precautions were continued today by the authorities in charge of the murder trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti at Dedham. Sheriff Capen issued orders that the policemen search every man entering the courthouse.

Sergeant Riedel and Officer Curran of Norwood stood at the main entrance and searched each spectator. The first witness today was Mrs. Ruth C. Johnson of East Bridgewater, who picked out Sacco as one of the four men who acted strangely near her home on the night of the arrests. It was her tip to the police that caused the arrests of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Under cross-examination of Attorney McAnarney, Mrs. Johnson said that although she had not previously seen the four men who now rest her home on the night of the arrests she was sure Sacco was one of them, "Mike" Boda, another and Ricardo Orciani, present chauffeur for Attorney Moore of the defence, a third. She could not identify the fourth man.

The authorities have not been able to locate Boda. His automobile has remained unclaimed in the public garage of Johnson's husband since that night, thirteen months ago.

LICENSES TO WED RUSHED BY MAIL

While a number of marriage licenses were sent through the mail today to prospective newlyweds, City Hall officials are not going to establish a regular mail order business in this line. But with the city employes given a week and vacation starting today it was decided by City Registrar Moore to hold up any intended weddings if possible and licenses on which the five-day law had expired were put in the mail before closing time.

SEEK CAMBRIDGE HEIRS OF ESTATE

The Cambridge police are searching for the relatives of Dr. Albert Guild, who died in that city forty-seven years ago, in order that an estate in Germany, consisting of bonds, cash and silverware, may be settled. The police are endeavoring to find the missing heirs at the direction of a firm of New York attorneys, who represent the Surrogate Court of Munich.

ALLEGES INSANE CHARGE IS PLOT

Newton Lawyer in Court Tomorrow to Fight Commitment Proceedings

lawyers of larceny, safe robbery and murder.

ALLEGES SHAPLEY WAS SLAIN.

He alleged that his wife's first husband, the late George H. Shapley, wealthy Newton mill owner, was slain, and that business associates plundered his safe before he was dead.

He further charged that "pillaging lawyers" had looted the Shapley estate until it had dwindled from $1,000,000 to less than $25,000.

These charges are not new. They were made by the present Mrs. Renfrew, then Mrs. Shapley, two or three years ago, when she was engaged in a spectacular battle to keep out of State institutions for the insane.

Friends of the Newton lawyer insist that he is the victim of a plot and say they will spend thousands of dollars to thwart the plans of the authorities do not doubt this, as they say the little band of people Renfrew led has a well-stocked war chest with which to fight for its members.

Robert W. Renfrew first came into the limelight as the "nearest friend" of Sarah C. Shapley, who later became his wife. He directed the legal fight which resulted in her temporary freedom. Later she escaped. They were wed in Exeter, N. H.

In his legal fight for his wife Renfrew had as a colleague James J. Keown, Lynn lawyer-doctor. Keown was later committed as insane, twice escaped from Danvers and is now at liberty.

The propaganda which it is alleged Renfrew helped to direct has been devoted to liberating persons "illegally detained" in insane asylums.

ASSOCIATE ADJUDGED INSANE.

Those engaged in it are mostly people of education, money and influence. They have been behind Mrs. Shapley Renfrew ever since the first got into trouble with the authorities. They are supposed to have been instrumental in having Mrs. Mary R. Rice, wealthy Worcester woman, removed from public to private insane asylum. Keown, the lawyer-physician, was the leading figure in the Rice case.

These friends of the "unjustifiably detained" insane have their own magazine, through which they push their propaganda. They also employ advertisements asking for information of people "unlawfully detained" and start actions to release them. This is particularly true of asylum inmates with money.

COMPERS' FOES CAN BEAT HIM

Enough Votes Pledged and in Sight to Make Lewis Federation Chief

By International News Service.

Denver, Col., June 17.—John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers of America, has enough votes pledged and enough in sight to assure him election as president of the American Federation of Labor, in place of Samuel Gompers, according to claims of his supporters today.

The campaign being conducted for him is the biggest talk of the labor convention next to the Irish question. It is the first serious attempt to oust the veteran head of the federation.

It is generally believed Lewis has the support of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, which has the largest voting delegation next to the miners, while the railroad unions are known to be in a receptive mood to "talk business."

It is conceded that the opposition to Gompers is large enough to beat him and that Lewis, of all the possible candidates for his job, is alone strong enough to get the votes to be elected.

There is a question, however, whether Lewis will be the candidate. According to reports, he insists upon assurances of 20,000 votes to convince him that there is enough sentiment to demand his running.

Efforts to have the Irish resolution providing for the boycott of British goods adopted have failed. At the library committee of Irish delegates a number who signed the resolution withdrew their names, announcing that the Canadian affiliations of their international unions would not permit them to support it. C. P. Foley, one of the leaders of the group behind the resolution, issued a statement declaring it will be made the test of "real friendship" for Ireland when the roll of the convention is called.

"If the convention fails to pass the resolution the men and women of American labor movement will know that their delegates have withheld from Ireland the only real aid in their power to give the Irish people in their hour of dire need," said the statement.

The indications are that the executive council's denunciation of the Lenine regime and repudiation of its policies will be approved by the convention without opposition.

BRAINS WIN! ASK PEDLER. HE KNOWS

Awakened by the calls of a strawberry peddler, Sergeant (William McBeth of the night staff at the Charlestown station recognized in his to mentor a man wanted by the police.

But the policeman was cued only in a night shirt and how could an officer go to jail in a night shirt in that garb.

So everybody called for two boxes of berries.

When the man entered the sergeants room he found himself under arrest.

BEQUESTS IN WILL OF LAURENCE MINOT

Bequests of $5,000 each to J. Henry Russell, Elizabeth and Louise C. Rackeman, Wayland Manning, Vredenburgh Minot, and $2,000 to Edmund Billings are contained in the will of Laurence Minot of Boston, which also provides that former bequests of gifts devised and property to William Minot shall be revoked and the property kept in trust for him instead. William Minot, a nephew, and Katherine M. Channing are left considerable property.

THESE ROBBERS AREN'T POLITE

Nelson H. Graveline of Strawberry Hill, Nantasket, found today in Quincy, told the police that he had been robbed of $72 by four men who threw him from an auto. Graveline, the police say, declared that he met the men at Nantasket and after drinking with them joined them in an early morning ride.

Can ANY person who reads these words make use of $500?
And will you give thirty short, interesting, helpful and productive minutes every day for sixty days in exchange?

In the above four paragraphs we again call attention to the Boston American's $6,000 Songs of the World Title Test.

This is the Ninth Day of the Sixty-Day Test.

The Boston American prints today Picture No. 9, in a series of Sixty Pictures.

Each picture will be printed without its title.

The correct title will appear every day in a List of Titles. Participants in the Test will be asked to find it and, having found it, write it on the line reserved for that purpose immediately under the cut.

$6,000 TO BE DISTRIBUTED.

Pictures and Titles must not be sent to us before the end of the sixty-day Test. Then your titles will be compared with the Official List and $6,000 will be distributed in cash among those who have sent in the largest numbers of Correct Titles. The List of Awards is as follows:

ONE FIRST AWARD	$1,000
ONE SECOND AWARD	1,000
ONE THIRD AWARD	750
ONE FOURTH AWARD	500
ONE FIFTH AWARD	400
ONE SIXTH AWARD	300
ONE SEVENTH AWARD	200
ONE EIGHTH AWARD	150
ONE NINTH AWARD	100
ONE TENTH AWARD	50
100 AWARDS OF $10 EACH	1,000
110 AWARDS OF $5 EACH	550
TOTAL	$6,000

For writing titles!
For finding and writing titles!
For finding and writing carefully the Correct Titles!

Every day for 60 days a Test Picture, without its title.

Every day a List of Titles (see today's) containing the Correct Title.

As easy as that!

Yes, and as difficult as that!

A story likely to be of help to every participant in the Songs of the World Title Test will be printed in tomorrow's Boston American in connection with the recent $6,000 Movie Play Title Test.

MOVIE TITLE WINNERS.

Names and addresses of the 219 winners in the Movie Play Title Test will be printed here tomorrow. There will be pictures of, and interviews with, the Nine Big Winners. These clever and fortunate persons will tell How They Did It. The story will name the titles on which the "Big Nine" scored "blanks."

Tomorrow's full page story will be of particular value because both Tests are constructed on the same plan. Each is based upon titles. Each consists of sixty pictures, drawn by the same artist. When you have the "low-down" on the old Test, therefore, you will be armed for the new.

There will be a big demand everywhere for the Boston American.

You know what to do and Mr. Newsdealer will be glad to take your order. His own order for Saturday will be made up early this afternoon. Act quickly! You NEVER will know the real story of the Movie Play Title Test unless you see tomorrow's Boston American.

Rules of the Song Title Test

The Boston American Songs of the World Title Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and twenty cash awards will be given in accordance to the readers who send in the largest percentage of correct titles to the sixty pictures to be published (one each day consecutively thirty days excepted) in the Boston American.

All solutions of the Boston American and their correctness are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The total number of 60 pictures, each representing the title of a well-known song, will be printed one each day in the Boston American, the first picture appearing on Wednesday, June 8, 1921.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which may be run in the future, conducted by any other newspaper or periodical, will not debar any contestant from entering this contest, nor will any member of the family of any contestant or any member of the household be debarred from entering this contest. Any participant shall be entitled to more than one award, but not more than one award shall be given to any one family.

Each day's selection must be neatly written and printed in the coupon furnished by the Boston American or on a copy of same torn from the issue containing the picture furnished by the Boston American. A pen or pencil may be employed. Give name, residence, etc., of the participant on each coupon.

Do not send your titles in "list" form, i. e. one under the other, but write one another on down the page.

In case there are not complete sets of correct titles, awards will be given to the person submitting the nearest correct solutions, strict regard to skill and judgment.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of skill, judgment and accuracy, but of the tie no further evidence will be had, way the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their titles before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the end of the Test will be thrown away. Keep your titles right by you and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together at one time.

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first titles sent in after the Test closes will stand no better than the last submitted.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American Title headquarters, at No. 32 Hamilton place, Boston, Mass., either by mail or in person, within the time limit. Titles received later will not be considered.

All envelopes or packages containing titles must be plainly addressed as follows: Song Title Test Editor, No. 32 Hamilton street, Boston, Mass. P. O. Box 2000," and each envelope or package must bear the name and address of the sender in the upper left-hand corner of the outer left-hand corner.

As all pictures in the Test will contain words of printed matter, it would be impossible necessary that the packages be first opened in the office of the Boston American. If participants desire personal receipt of their coupons and titles they must send in for such a receipt or they may phone Main 7000 and ask for the Song Title Test Editor.

The Boston American reserves the right to make any change in, or addition to, these rules as it may deem necessary for fair and properly conducting the Test, and the decision of the Boston American Song Title Editor on any question which may arise will be considered final, and the entry of a participant in a contest acceptance of all conditions and restrictions now made or to be made.

INDIANA GOVERNOR FLEES ARMED MAN

Indianapolis, June 17.—What is believed to have been an attempt on the life of Governor McCray was thwarted when State House attaches detained Tony Amas, a Pole, while the Governor slipped from his office by a rear passage. Amas was arrested. Amas, who also gave the name of Yamorn, had threatened with a knife members of the State Industrial Board following an alternative over a pending suit for injuries received in a factory at Indiana Harbor. He then went to the Governor's office.

HEART TROUBLE KILLING SCORES

Neglected Teeth and Social Diseases Dangerous, Says Hub Specialist

By HAZEL CANNING.

It used to be consumption—the great white scourge—which took off too many good people, far too early.

But that dread disease, in mortality, has now given way to heart trouble. Today, many more die of heart trouble than of consumption, and the numbers are still increasing.

Dr. William H. Robey, of No. 202 Commonwealth avenue, heart specialist and consultant on heart diseases at the Boston City Hospital, so states the case for heart disease.

INCREASE ALARMING.

"Too alarmingly on the increase," he says. The time has come to teach the layman what he can do to save himself and his children from what, if taken in time, is an unnecessary affliction."

Dr. Robey gives three measures which will help to stem heart trouble. Here they are:

1—Remove foci of infection in children and adults.

2—Prevent social disease in every possible way.

3—Have a medical examination each year to know how it is with your heart. Then govern yourself accordingly.

Dr. Robey discusses the three measures. "Social disease is far commoner among us than the uninitiated would believe," he says. "From one form of this disease, heart trouble is almost sure to develop. Next as to foci of infection. This infection starts from neglected teeth, tonsils and adenoids. Rheumatism results. Minute abcesses form at the roots of the teeth and feed their poison into the blood stream. This is carried on and affects the valves of the heart.

"Cardiac troubles develop which, had the original ill been treated in time, had never developed at all."

WARNING TO PARENTS.

Dr. Robey has a word of warning to parents: "Don't neglect your youngster's teeth in childhood. It is for heart trouble is laid. The man then, too often, had the foundation who dies all too soon, in the pride of his forties, might, sometimes, have been saved by simple precautionary measures when he was little Johnny of the neglected teeth.

"Then, see that your child convalesces slowly after diptheria, childish measles and other fevers. Heart strain, prematurely put upon the heart, after illness develops cardiac trouble for later life. It is poison from diseased conditions, much more often, that leads to heart trouble than undue strain, though we must admit that, in certain types of over-strenuous Americans, the wear and tear of life seems to lead to heart trouble.

ALL SHOULD CO-OPERATE.

"If everyone did what he could to co-operate with the physician to arrest heart trouble, the alleviation would be in sight. Physicians are now, in our own city, as elsewhere, organizing heart clinics to correlate studies in heart disease. The public must be educated and the private citizen must take it upon himself to have his examination yearly to help prevent infection and to help stem, by every means in his power, the alarming increase of social disease, a most dread cause of heart trouble."

OPPOSING PEACE FACTIONS CONFER

Washington, June 17.—The first steps towards the House and Senate getting together to iron out the differences between the Knox and Porter peace resolutions were taken at a conference between Senators Lodge of Massachusetts, Knox of Pennsylvania, and Representatives Porter of Pennsylvania and Rogers of Massachusetts. The conference was informal and no agreement was reached.

BOSTON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

By BETTY ALDEN.

One (or should I say two?) of the month's most important weddings is scheduled for tomorrow noon at St. Paul's Church, Dedham. For then and there the double wedding of the Misses Rogers takes place. Miss Susan Rogers will become the bride of Mr. David Maynard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Maynard of Dedham. She will be attended by Mrs. William Rogers as matron of honor and will have as bridesmaids Miss Virginia Converse of Boston, Mrs. Herbert Maynard, Jr., of New York and Miss Dorothy Neyhard of Framingham. Mr. Herbert Maynard, Jr., will be his brother's best man.

Mary, whose fiance is Mr. Richard Saltonstall, asked her sister-in-law-to-be, Muriel Saltonstall, to act as maid of honor. Her other attendants will be the Misses Rose Fessenden, Helene Sullivan and Katherine Winslow. A breakfast at the home of the brides' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Rogers, will follow the ceremony.

June weddings and sailings continue to vie with one another for first places on society's calendar. Competition is keen, and it is hard to say which is ahead. Among those answering the call to Europe are: Mrs. George Fearing, Jr., who is spending the entire Summer abroad with her son, George Fearing, Jr. Mrs. Fearing is president of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters. Ex-Congressman and Mrs. Charles G. Washburn of Worcester, who are well known here, have sailed for a three months' tour of Europe with their daughter Esther.

Manchester-by-the-Sea is claiming for its Summer colony the usual coterie of prominent Bostonians. Among the number who are enjoying that cool spot along the North Shore are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ivins Croll of Beacon street, with their daughters, Miss Pauline Croll and Mrs. Thaddeus Deffeback. Mrs. George Dudley Howe of Commonwealth avenue has also departed for her estate there as well as Mr. and Mrs. Russell S. Codman of Marlborough street.

* * *

I hear that Miss Louisa Wells, who is now in England for an extended stay, will visit the Frederic Cauldwells of Washington in Paris before she returns to Boston. Mrs. Cauldwell is the daughter of American Consul-General Alexander M. Thackera, with whom she and her husband are staying.

* * *

Miss Margaret W. Adriance will today become the bride of the Rev. Frederick B. Wiblington, chaplain of Phillips-Exeter Academy. Miss Wiblington will be married in the First Congregational Church. She is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College last June. The bridegroom, who is a native of Honolulu, graduated from Harvard in 1915 and the Union Theological Seminary in 1918.

I hear that Mr. Daniel A. de Menocal of Beacon street is stopping at the Hotel Chatham, New York city.

Mr. Charles Hayden and Mr. Josiah W. Hayden of this city are sojourning at Briarcliff Lodge in the Westchester Hills, overlooking the Hudson River, N. Y.

Miss Mary Rogers, on left, and Miss Susan Rogers, sisters, who will be brides at a double wed ding in St. Paul's Church, Dedham, tomorrow. Miss Mary will wed Mr. Richard Saltonstall, and Miss Susan will be the bride of Mr. David Maynard.

Newsstand Girl Who Is Also Medical Student Makes Good in Show

Magazines and other literary products, not to mention cigars, cigarettes and tobacco.

UNUSUAL NEWSGIRL

For a long time the patrons of the Copley-Plaza realized that the young woman behind the counter was a very unusual newsgirl. She discouraged the swarms of students from Harvard and elsewhere who tried to enlarge a purchase into an acquaintance.

She was demure, polite, but not conversational. She had a little way of getting rid of drummers, actors and other self-important persons which was efficient and never gave offense. It was obvious that she was a girl of refinement and education, but she never talked about herself.

Flo Ziegfeld, when here with the Follies last season, saw her and sent his casting to persuade her to join his aggregation of beauties. She kept on selling papers.

Since Virgil Randolph has been in Boston with his production, "The Right Girl," he has been trying to persuade her to enter his show, and finally offered to create a part for her, with lines to speak. Miss Boland consented upon condition that she be permitted to take a stage name, and she selected Diana Chase as her nom-de-theatre.

SECRET GETS OUT.

She was too well known, however, to keep her identity a secret. At the Copley-Plaza last night it was buzzing everywhere that the girl on the newsstand was a real actress playing at the Selwyn Park Square. A big deputation went down to see her and pronounced her excellent.

Tonight the Copley-Plaza has taken fifty seats to entertain the Biltmore baseball team from New York, and to show them the prize of the Copley-Plaza on the stage in "The Right Girl."

Roxbury Girl Wins Art Scholarship

ARLETAH E. ROUSE

Pretty twelve-year-old Arletah E. Rouse of Roxbury, who will graduate from Dillaway School in a few days, has been awarded a scholarship in the vocational arts class of Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

She is planning on attending Practical Arts High School next season in addition to attending the Museum arts class.

Miss Rouse is the daughter of Winslow Rouse. Her fifteen-year-old brother, Winslow Monroe Rouse, is soprano soloist at Trinity Church, Copley square.

PRINCIPAL DENIES SHORT SKIRTS BAN

Lee T. Gray, headmaster of the Portsmouth, N. H. High School, objects to a story printed in the Boston American June 4 in which he was said to have censured girl students for wearing abbreviated skirts and rolled stockings. Mr. Gray declared that he did not take the girls to task for wearing this type of costume.

CONTENDS "BUM" IS NO LONGER SLANDER

New York, June 17.—The word "Bum" is no longer a slanderous appellation since prohibition went into effect, according to contention made in the Brooklyn Supreme Court. Mrs. Nellie Lacey of Brooklyn sued her landlady for $10,000 damages, alleging that she had been slandered by being called a bum. The attorney for the landlady secured a dictionary which defined a bum as a "Gunzier, an idle drunkard and a sponger of drinks." The judge reserved decision.

ALL WAR WORK IN GRAFT PROBE

Daugherty Says Practically Every Big Contract Will Be Investigated

Washington, June 17.—War graft investigations ordered by the President will be extended to cover practically all individuals and concerns who had dealings upon a large scale under contracts for supplies during the war period, Attorney-General Daugherty announced today.

"The books will be laid wide open," said Daugherty, "so that all persons and concerns may have a chance to know who is innocent and who is guilty.

"General suspicion surrounds all contracts of this character. The administration purposes to dispel such suspicions where there is no ground for any, and at the same time to show up those who have dug deep into the public treasury and taken unjust profits either through fraude or conspiracies."

Attorney General Daugherty said he will refrain from disclosing names or facts in cases which are merely under suspicion.

Scores of cases of this class are now before the department, including war contracts. He referred briefly to the case of the United States Harness Co. and said that this concern's contract with the War Department involved disposition of about 900,000 saddles besides other harness and accessories.

NEWS AND NOTES OF INTEREST IN MOTION PICTURE WORLD

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

LET YOUR name shine out and, regardless of what your particular "line" may be, you will be approached by a movie producer with a large contract. The famous authors, actors, playwrights and scenic artists have all come into their own in the film world.

Not only that, but such illmelit persons as Clara Smith Hamon, Pitt Potter Stillman, and, according to late reports, Bronck White are given opportunities to show what they can do on the screen.

There are few who can resist the lure. Those who have something real to bring to the motion picture industry are more than welcomed by producers and public alike. Others are not such successes. Mrs. Stillman ignored the offer made her. Some few, indeed, realize their stock-in-trade and keep within their own limits.

Now we hear that George Bernard Shaw is approached with an offer from an American film concern to let them film one of his plays for 10,000 pounds, or approximately $50,000. Those who know his plays will chuckle at his reply. "The man's a lunatic!" he announced. To back up his statement he calculated that when one of his shortest plays was cut to suitable screen length —the producer wished permission to use whole prefaces and much of the dialogue from his works— it would take nearly three years to run off the film!

TALMADGE HEISSUES.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE

THE Talmadge films have proved so popular that there aren't enough to go round. The remedy that defies old pictures are to be released for distribution.

Constance Talmadge's old success, "Up the Road With Sallie," will be shown. Norman Kerry appears opposite her.

The old Selznick picture, "The Moth," in which Norma Talmadge scored a success will also be released. Eugene O'Brien will be seen as Miss Talmadge's leading man.

INGRAM DUE, TOO.

ANOTHER to disregard Horace Greeley's advice to "go West" is Rex Ingram, who will reach New York from Los Angeles on Sunday. The reason for his second visit is that ale University is to confer on him the degre of Bashelor of Fine Arts. Mr. Ingram was at one time an undergraduate at Yale. The honor is in recognition of his remarkable work in filming "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

Ingram has left the work on his next super-special taken from the Balzac novel, "Eugenie Grandet," for a few days. June Mathis, who was responsible for the continuity of "The Four Horsemen," wrote the scenario for this picture, which will be titled, "The Conquering Power." Rudolph Valentine and Alice Terry will play the leads.

MORE FOREIGN FILMS COMING.

"SUMURUN" and "The Wanderer" are on their way to this country from Germany to be released by Famous Players-Lasky. Charles E. Whittaker, who is bringing them from Berlin, has worked on them to insure that they are in proper shape for American audiences.

Another foreign film, which, from advance reports, is destined to cause a stir inpicture circles, is "The Golem," a picture which brings out not only a new director but a remarkable actor, Paul Wegener, who is said by some to be even better than Ernest Lubitsch, is seen in both capacities. "The Golem" is based on a tradition that the Hebraic science knew how to create life as it was first created, from clay; that the wise men could make a statue come to life. It abounds in Jewish legends.

TOM MIX

TOM MIX, the rough riding Fox star, will leave his beloved West, his pintos, ponies, rodeos, and cow punching "extras" for a glimpse of the East, also to show New York talent in his newest production, "The Big Town Rounder."

Mix leaves Hollywood the latter part of this week and will reach New York on Tuesday, where he will appear in all the glory of his cowboy outfit, lassos and all. He confesses that the real reason for his visit is the "big fight" in Jersey City.

WANTS TO FIND OUT.

GOUVERNEUR MORRIS is very busy in Hollywood. When he isn't working on original stories for filming he is investigating the other branches of the industry. At present it is the photography that holds his interest.

Mr. Morris has invested in a movie camera and has taken views of everything in the house from the front gate to the Chinese cook. He hasn't quite the knack yet, he admits, and is afraid the cook may see the picture and leave.

CHANCE FOR BUDDING AUTHORS.

THE PHOTOPLAY Magazine is offering prizes of $5,000, $2,500, $1,000 and $500 for the best short stories accepted by it for publication during 192. Twenty-four stories will be published before the end of this year. Four will be awarded the above prizes and the rest—those that are published—will be paid for at the rate of $250 each.

Already one of those published has been bought for the screen.

Universal will film "The Gossamer Web."

CAMERA CLICKS.

AVERY HOPWOOD was interviewed by a French journalist when he was in Paris. He was asked, "What is the most famous historical drama in America?" "Ten Nights in a Barroom," was the reply.

Hawaiian Canned Pineapple In a More Convenient Form Crushed or Grated

When baking pies, fixing salad, making puddings or frozen dainties, you will find it much more convenient to use Hawaiian Canned Pineapple in its Crushed or Grated form.

Like the sliced pineapple with which you are more familiar, the Crushed or Grated is real, sun-ripened fruit, picked in the first few hours of its prime, and packed before sundown that same day.

All of the lusciousness and native flavor of the natural Hawaiian Pineapple is preserved by this process.

Buy Crushed or Grated Hawaiian Canned Pineapple at your grocer's in half dozen or dozen lots; then you will always be ready for the emergency. It is packed in several sizes of cans to suit your needs.

It will keep perfectly on your pantry shelf until you are ready for its use, and it requires no preparation whatsoever.

At the soda fountain, ask for a Pineapple Sundae. It is made with ice cream and Crushed or Grated Hawaiian Pineapple.

Send for our booklet containing many dainty methods of serving Hawaiian Crushed or Grated Pineapple.

HAWAIIAN PINEAPPLE
CRUSHED OR GRATED

Try These Good Recipes

Pineapple Pie—Beat ½ cupful butter, 1 cupful sugar and the yolks of 3 eggs to a cream. Add 1 can Grated or Crushed Hawaiian Pineapple. Dissolve 1 tablespoonful cornstarch in a cup of sweet cream and add to the pineapple. Mix thoroughly. Beat the whites of the eggs until stiff and fold in lightly. Have ready a pie tin lined with crust. Fill with the pineapple mixture and bake in a moderate oven.

Pineapple Sherbet—Strain 1 can Grated Hawaiian Pineapple and add ½ cupful of sugar to the solid fruit. Let this cook slowly for ½ hour, then chill. Boil 3 cupfuls of water and 1½ cupfuls sugar together for 10 minutes, then cool. To this cold syrup add the juice from the can of pineapple and the juice of 3 lemons. Turn this into freezer and pack with salt and ice, using about 5 cupfuls coarse salt and enough finely pounded ice to pack the freezer solidly. Turn the freezer slowly for the first 10 minutes, then rapidly until the mixture is frozen—about 10 minutes more. Drain off the salt from the cover of the freezer and remove. Take out the beater, scrape off all the sherbet. Add the cooked pineapple and beat well. Cover and let stand half an hour or more. Serve in sherbet glasses. This sherbet will be light, creamy and of fine texture.

Fresh From Paris

PARIS, France.

An exceedingly appealing little black crepe de chine frock confines all decorative efforts to its bodice, leaving the skirt to fend for itself. And one of the most striking things a skirt can do is to conform to the new skirt length that Paris is advocating. Perhaps you will wonder what the correct length is, since skirts themselves seem uncertain, but you will generally find that when a skirt is abbreviated it will make some arrangement—fringe or overskirt or perhaps drapery of the fabric itself—to gain greater length. Seven to ten inches from the ground is the latest fashion at Paris, with possibly the preference to the longer skirt. But back to the standing collar, vestee, girdle and sleeve bands, though one scarcely knows whether to call them sleeves or to say that they are not sleeves at all, but bodice. Embroidery in Persian rose and green and gold is used for the merely elongated shoulders. However, given a little time, Paris will lengthen sleeves along with the skirt.

CYCLAMEN pink is a shade chosen by Paris for many of its mid-Summer ventures, and the bouffant little frock of crepe romain, sketched at right, adopts it most advantageously and adorns it with pastel ruffles of the crepe in royal blue. There is one wide ruffle for the collar and a second at the lower right side of the skirt, while bands of the blue crepe and silk embroidery in matching blue are unusually charming decorative touches. A row of buttons at the side of the skirt are covered with the cyclamen pink crepe.

TELLS HOW TO EDUCATE CHILD

Natural Method Begins in the Cradle, Says Mother of Girl Lecturer

You child, at three, can be scanning Virgil, as well as Mother Goose.

And your child, at eight, might speak eight languages.

That child of yours can write books, in his early teens and enter college at twelve, and confound the philosophers, just a little later, provided you bring him up right.

This is the contention of Mrs. Winifred Sackville Stoner, "most wonderful woman of the age," according to S. S. McClure. Now Mrs. Stoner is the mother of Winifred Sackville Stoner, Jr., who, at eighteen, is writing plays, lecturing on the same platform as a noted scientist and making more money than many a father of a family.

And her mother, Mrs. Stoner, was her teacher.

"I taught her by the natural method," says Mrs. Stoner, "and I didn't lose any time. There was no silly baby talk in my nursery. But there was no soul cramping work, either. We learned through our play. We memorized to rhythm."

Mrs. Stoner is in Boston for a few days, to lecture on natural education before Wheelock Kindergarten School students.

ARREST STARTS AUTO PROBE

Lowell Man, Who Led Double Life, May Be Accused of Other Car Thefts

Following the arrest of John H. Collins, superintendent of the Lowell Electric Light Company and prominent in that city, on the charge of stealing an automobile owned by Mrs. Dorothy Ramsay of Newton Centre, Boston police have started an investigation, which, they say, may lead to further auto thefts being charged up to the Lowell man.

Collins' arrest in Brookline for the theft of the Ramsay car had a sequel in Lawrence, with the apprehension there of Miss Ethel Goddard, twenty-three years old, of Halifax, N. S.

The young woman was charged with misconduct, and his arrest resulted from information given by Collins, who, the police say, declared he had established her in a Lawrence apartment about six months ago and had maintained her there since.

Collins is being held under $15,000 bonds for a hearing in the Boston Municipal Court, June 23. The case of Miss Goddard will come up in Lawrence court today.

"Joy Ferry" on Its Way to America

Paris, June 17.—The Paris, the biggest liner ever built for France, is on her maiden trip to New York.

The Paris has been nicknamed the "Joy Ferry," as it carries 17,000 bottles of champagne, 645 cases of red wine, 556 cases of white wine, with barrels of cognac and other spirits.

She will have 2,000 passengers, including General Fayelle, who goes on a mission to Canada, and Miss Pearl White, whom Henri Letellier motored to Havre, giving her a farewell champagne luncheon aboard the liner.

GREELEY'S WILL NAMED COUSIN

Defendant in $100,000 Suit Testifies His Wife Was to Share in Fortune

Fred Greeley, defendant in the $100,000 suit brought by Mrs. Jane Frost Rogers of Pembroke street, who blames him for balking her marriage to his cousin, the late Cyrus Greeley, revealed that his wife was interested financially in the estate of the deceased bank president of Lewiston, Me.

Greeley testified that he was a second cousin of Cyrus Greeley and that he married a niece of the deceased banker twenty-seven years ago. He said he knew that he had been made executor and trustee under the banker's will made in 1912, but declared he did not know of a codicil made April 29, 1915.

Replying to Attorney Vahey for Mrs. Rogers, he said he did not know that his wife was to receive $20,000 under the will and residuary legatee with one-third interest under the codicil until after the banker's death.

FATAL BATTLE IN NEW PARKWAY

One Man Killed, Women Wounded, in Gun Fight on Schiff Thoroughfare

New York, June 17.—One man was killed, another probably fatally wounded and other men and two women were struck by stray bullets in a fight among four men early today on Schiff Parkway at the height of the celebration being held in connection with the renaming the thoroughfare.

The man killed is supposed to be Vincenzo Alfalo, forty years old, of No. 8 Prince street; Nicholas Ventura, thirty-five years old, of No. 24 Schiff parkway, was shot through the left eye and in the chest and is in a hospital.

More than twenty shots were exchanged. Witnesses said that two Italians were seen walking along the Parkway and glancing back at the two other men walking about twenty feet behind them. Suddenly the two in front turned and fired at the other two men who returned the shots.

The fighters ran up Schiff Parkway firing as they ran.

$100,000 LOSS IN BALTIMORE FIRE

Baltimore, Md., June 17.—Fire of undetermined origin early today destroyed a big dancing pavilion two Gwynn, Oak Park. Several other buildings were damaged. The loss is estimated at about $100,000.

Deplores Effect of Silken Clad Ankles on Jurors

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 17.—"We swear to deliver a true verdict according to the shape of the defendant's ankle and the law and the evidence if we happen to hear any of it."

Assistant County Attorney Wright claims that unless styles soon change the oath of the jurors may be as well altered from the statutory form to something in line with the above.

Wright deplores that fair and dreamy look that comes into the eyes of the jurors when a good-looking woman is being tried.

"We get into court with the evidence," he said. "We introduce it, then we argue to preoccupied jurors who go out, stampede and chase back with a verdict of 'not guilty.'

"You can't blame the officers of the courts. We can't enforce the law if jurors deliberate like judges in a baby fat contest.

"A jury looks at a woman's silken shod ankles, in out ten minutes, then files in solemn-faced with a 'not guilty' verdict."

PREDICTS FALL OF INDUSTRIAL COURT

Denver, Col., June 17.—"No court in the world can keep me from calling a strike when conditions justify it," Alexander Howat, sentenced to a prison term for defiance of the Kansas Industrial Court, declared on his arrival here to attend the convention of the American Federation of Labor.

"The Kansas Industrial Court will collapse when there is a real strike in Kansas. It's coming. The miners have been leading the fighting, but the rest of organized labor will join in and not when it is necessary."

BRICKLAYERS IN CLEVELAND STRIKE

Cleveland, O., June 17.—All building in Cuyahoga County has been practically tied up as the result of a second strike of union bricklayers, who were dissatisfied with an arbitral wage award of $1.04 an hour.

PROVIDENCE DOGS BITE TWO PERSONS

Providence, June 17.—A dog, with a collar sterling the name of John Day of No. 72 Fordham street, attacked and tore the left hip of Adelina Morocco, twenty-four years old, of No. 135 Atwells avenue, while George Crowley, fifty-two years old, of No. 255 South street, was bitten on the left leg by another dog.

HER SKIN IS A SIGHT! TELL HER OF POSLAM

Rose: "You KNOW I can't go to the dance tomorrow. Just look at those pimples. I'm a sight!"

Maud: "Nonsense, dear! All you have to do is put a dab of Poslam on each pimple tonight and again tomorrow morning. They will be gone before Ben calls for you."

Rose: "Where can I get Poslam?"

Maud: "Why, every druggists has it! But I always keep a box in my toilet case. You can see that this time I use Peacock Soap, too. That has the Poslam medication and really keeps my complexion splendidly healthy."

FAIL TO AGREE ON NAVY BILL

Borah Disarmament Proposal Splits House and Senate Conferees

Washington, June 17.—Without being able to reach any agreement on the Borah disarmament proposal or the Senate's increase of the navy's personnel from 100,000 to 128,800 men, the Senate and House conferees on the navy appropriation bill finally split after deciding to report to their respective chambers their inability to come to an understanding.

The House conferees after a week of wrangling held out to the last against the $100,000,000 increased appropriation which the Senate added to the bill.

The only important item agreed upon was the Senate's appropriation of $1,000,000 for a naval hospital at San Diego, Cal., the House conferees refusing to concur in the other Pacific coast projects.

PAVEMENT DANCE FOR WESTFIELD

Westfield, June 17.—Hundreds of citizens of this city will dance outdoors on the pavement on Park square tonight. These community dances originated at the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration of Westfield and have been held yearly since.

TAUNTON PONZI INVESTORS SUED

Trustees Lay Claim to $4,500 Received by Three Women and Two Men

Three women and two men, all residents of Taunton, are named defendants in suits filed in the Federal Court by the Ponzi trustees, who are endeavoring to recover from the defendants $4,500 which they are alleged to have collected from the Securities Exchange Co., which was conducted by Charles Ponzi.

The defendants are Bridget and Helen M. Curran, who are alleged to have collected their original investment of $1,000 each, and Delia M. Curran, whom the trustees claim collected her $500, all of No. 202 Weir street, Taunton, and Daniel Carey, No. 29 Broadway, and Dominic Cassulo of No. 153 Mason street, Taunton, who are alleged to have collected their original investment of $1,000 each.

Despite the fact that these defendants did not allow their investment to remain until it matured, the trustees nevertheless contend that the recovery of their investments was a preferential payment and ask that the court issue a decree ordering the defendants to return the received investments to the trustees in order that there might be an equitable division of the Ponzi estate at a later date.

War Hero's Child to Christen Ship

MISS CAMILLE PALUMBO

Miss Camille Palumbo of No. 17 Unity street, only daughter of the late Italian consul of Boston to the overseas during the World War, will be the sponsor for the new ferry boat, "Ralph J. Palumbo," named after her father, and which is to be launched June 22 at the Winisimmet ship yards. The launching will take place with appropriate ceremony, and Miss Palumbo will christen the new vessel as it slides into the water.

UNCLE SAM TAKES SEIZED MUNITIONS

Newark, N. J., June 17.—An order was signed by Federal Judge Lynch here forfeiting to the United States government 494 Thompson machine guns and other munitions valued at approximately $150,000 seized by customs officials from the steamer East Side yesterday consigned to Ireland. A controversy had been raging as to whether the Hoboken police or the customs officials should hold the seized good in charge.

RAIL CLERKS TO PROTEST CUT

Threat to Abolish Overtime Pay Stirs North Station Men to Action

Roused by the threat of the management to withdraw rights and privileges which have been theirs for more than twenty years, members of the clerical force of the Boston & Maine Railroad at the North Station have called a mass meeting of protest in Puritan Hall, Friend street, for Monday morning.

The threat which has stirred the entire clerical force is contained in a letter from A. H. Slader, assistant to the vice-president and general manager, and addressed to J. D. Flynn, chairman of the clerks' committee.

In it Mr. Slader intimates in plain language that "it is contrary to good business principles" to continue to pay the clerks for "over time, holidays, Saturday afternoons and vacations." The men have been receiving pay for these for more than twenty years.

Washington, June 17.—The President sent the following nomination to the Senate:

To be collector of internal revenue, Rhode Island—Frank A. Page of Providence.

SLIP OF KNIFE IS FATAL TO BUTCHER

Asbury Park, N. J., June 17.—A slip of the hand resulted fatally for Morris Mesnikoff, a butcher. While slicing meat for a customer, the butcher's hand slipped and he drove the knife into his groin. He bled to death.

No home should be without Resinol Ointment to be applied to the first bit of itching rash or redness. Its mild, harmless ingredients and its success in healing eczema and kindred ills have made it a standard skin treatment and a favorite with doctors. Sold by druggists everywhere. Ask your druggist for it.

BRITISH COTTON OUTLOOK BRIGHTER

Manchester, England, June 17.—The opening of the cotton conference here following settlement of the most serious dispute in the history of the British textile industry is symbolical of the better times that are coming, said Lord Mayor Kay in an address welcoming the delegates.

The Lord Mayor said that the lose outside interference there was in trade union matters the better the understanding would be between the employers and employes.

The British cotton textile dispute was adjusted on the basis of a lower wage scale, which was accepted by the operatives.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

Beware! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for twenty-one years and proved safe by millions. Take Aspirin only as told in the Bayer package for Colds, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Earache, Toothache, Lumbago and for Pain. Handy tin boxes of twelve Bayer Tablets of Aspirin cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

NEW ENGLAND TRADE REVIEW

Slackening in Business Only Superficial

The general improvement in business, which was expected to be established by May at least, seems to wait in the offing. The progress of conditions toward normal that went along so merrily during the first of the year has begun in the past few weeks to slacken pace perceptibly. The whole financial world is beginning to bear a gloomy aspect. Yet this apparent slackening in improvement is chiefly superficial.

The important fundamentals in business are continuing to improve. Conditions in Europe, while still unsettled, are growing daily more stable. The gold reserve ratio of the Federal Reserve system is increasing. Money rates are showing a tendency to grow easier, although their downward path is very far from even. The emergency tariff has brought some measure of precaution, whatever its evil features may be. Prices are growing more stable. Labor is showing in general a gratifying attitude toward wage questions. And above all every week that passes is a step toward normalcy which could never come instantly.

The sentimental effect of an apparently retarded improvement is, of course, unfortunate. Business men are inclined to show by their spirit of lethargy that they are losing faith in the future. A lowering tone and general dullness in the stock market shows the unfortunate attitude of the financial element of the country. Unless business men as a whole can recover some of the old-time energy, improvement will continue slow.

The steel industry, for example, is at a low ebb, with mill operations at hardly more than 25 per cent. of capacity. Unfilled orders of the Steel Corporation continue to decline, the total on the books May 31 being 362,787 less than at the end of April, and the smallest in two years.

Only three of the leading copper mines of the country are actually operating, and two of these are taking out copper only as an incident to development work.

LEATHER MARKET FIRM.

Although the leather market was quiet during the past weeks, orders that were received were generally larger than in the past, and seemed to show a tendency toward covering requirements for longer periods. A fair amount of activity in the manufacturing line is encouraging sellers to continue to stand firm on prices.

Reflecting the general improvement in the industry is the fact that shoe, leather and kindred business failures for the week, all of them of a relatively unimportant nature, dropped substantially from the number recorded for the previous week, or from forty to thirty.

Export business in both shoes and leather has been booked during the week with indications that a more substantial volume of business from this source is in prospect.

RETAIL TRADE GOOD.

The retail trade continues to be encouraging in most lines, although it is not yet up to normal. The women's clothing trade seems to be better on the whole than the men's, and the former has shown a very favorable condition so far this season.

The dry goods trade is reported to be broadening out in all lines which have been brought out, although advance business is not expected as in seasons past.

LAWRENCE GAS REPORT IS DUE

Lawrence, June 17.—A special meeting of the Lawrence City Council will be held today to listen to a report of Mayor William P. White on the result of two conferences with lighting experts in regard to the investigation of the Lawrence Gas Company's rates to local consumers. A petition for a hearing before the Public Utilities Commission is also before the council. Mayor White claims to have hired a Boston expert on gas rates to assist him in his fight for cheaper gas.

L. & N. PLANS STOCK INCREASE

New York, June 17.—The directors of the Louisville & Nashville Railway at a meeting here called a special meeting of the stockholders for July 23 to approve an increase in the capital stock from the present $72,000,000 to $125,000,000 for the purpose of paying a stock dividend.

New Brunswick Wool

The wool to be handled by the New Brunswick Wool Growers' Association this season will be graded in a central warehouse to be established in the exhibition buildings in Fredericton. In 1920 the association handled 69,998 pounds and the 1919 total was 65,849.

More Inquiry for Copper

The latest report concerning copper is that there is more inquiry for red metal. Nominal quotations by leading sellers are 13¾ cents for June and 13¾ cents for July delivery, but business is being done by smaller dealers at 13 cents for spot and June and 13¼ cents for July.

California's Oil Output

The State Mining Bureau reports that in 1920 California's net oil production exceeded that of 1919 by 2,208,857 barrels. The State output was 103,184,734 barrels of oil and more than 37,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas from an area of 94,667 proved acres.

UNEARTHS BIG FOOD SWINDLE

Profiteers Adulterate Milk, Olive Oil and Soft Drinks, Lythgoe Warns Public

Evidence of wholesale profiteering by the adulteration of milk, olive oil and soft drinks was announced by Director Herman C. Lythgoe of the State Department of Food and Drugs in a general warning to the buying public.

Dr. Lythgoe declared that an analysis of forty-eight samples of alleged imported olive oil disclosed that every one of them had been heavily adulterated with cottonseed oil.

In like manner, twenty-two samples of soft drinks, which have become popular since prohibition, were found to contain saccharine, the sugar substitute, which is forbidden by law to be used for substitute purposes.

He declared that seventy-eight of 133 samples of milk were found to be below standard. They had been skimmed, watered or pumped.

Lythgoe said that scores of prosecutions have been begun in the courts.

City Hall Notes

STATE ELKS MEET IN WORCESTER

Worcester, June 17.—The seventh annual convention of the Massachusetts Elks is being held today in Worcester, with about 100 delegates in attendance. Work done by the war committee at Parker Hill Hospital was discussed. The convention will close tonight with a ball in the Bancroft Hotel.

MRS. C. F. HARDING HAS GAINED 18 LBS.

I Firmly Believe Tanlac Has Added Years to My Life Says Arlington Woman.

"If the people of Massachusetts, who have suffered and tried medicines until they have become disheartened and discouraged, only knew what Tanlac has done for me they would lose no time in getting a bottle," said Mrs. C. F. Harding, a fashionable dressmaker, residing at 299 Broadway, Arlington, Mass., while discussing the merits of the medicine, a few days ago.

On being asked if she was willing for her statement to be published, Mrs. Harding said: "Yes, indeed, and you may tell them I firmly believe Tanlac has added years to my life. For a number of years I had been in an awful run down condition. I fell off in weight from one hundred and thirty-six pounds to less than a hundred and had little hope of living much longer.

"My appetite was entirely gone and I was so weak I couldn't get around at all. Everything was done for me it seems possible to do for a person, as I was under treatment six different times, but with it all I kept getting worse. My nerves were completely shattered, and I would have such weak, dizzy spells that things turned black before me and I would faint dead away. The least little noise would almost set me wild and I could hardly sleep at all. For more than a year I was unable to turn my hands to a thing in the way of work and, as nothing helped me, I became very despondent and thought my days on earth were about over.

"For five years I lived in Seattle, Washington, and while there I found out about Tanlac and began taking it, and in a short time I felt a change for the better. This was over a year ago and since then I have taken ten bottles with the result that I have gained thirty-eight pounds and am now back to my normal weight of one hundred and thirty-six pounds.

"Tanlac has evidently given me a new lease on life, for I feel more like a girl than I do a woman of sixty-six. I eat just anything I want, sleep like a child every night, and have so much strength and energy that I am not satisfied unless I am busy at work. Tanlac certainly did bring happiness to our home, and I thank goodness that it ever came my way. If I could express in words what Tanlac has done everybody would know what a grand medicine it is."

Tanlac is distributed by International Proprietaries, Inc., and sold in Boston by all Liggett's drug stores.—Advertisement.

Dancing Pops at Arena Prove Big Success

Miss Beulah Baker, one of the entertainers at the floral ball which opened the dancing pops at the Arena.

The Floral Ball, which opened the Dancing Pops at the Boston Arena last night, proved to be popular and successful. There was a very large audience present which danced and watched some unusual features.

The "Birth of Old Glory," unfurling a great American flag, opened the ball. The different novelties were presented by Miss Florence Breen and Delbert Shepard. The Arena Trio and Miss Beulah Baker were encored, while the Arena Aerial Girls, who suspended themselves from the girders, proved a sensation.

A group of attractive young ladies acted as hostesses and made dancing a pleasure for those who came unescorted. The Arena is cool and well ventilated. Refreshments were served and everything possible for comfort and convenience was done.

The music is furnished by the Palm Beach orchestra of twenty-five pieces.

LENINE TELLS OF NEW POLICY

Must Learn From Capitalists as Red Army Learned From Militarists, He Says

Copyright, 1921, by the International News Service.

Riga, June 17.—Communists must learn from the capitalists just as the Red army learned from the militarists. This is the dictum expressed by Nicolai Lenine, head of the Soviet, in a written interview received here today explaining the change of policy at Moscow.

Lenine summed up the new attitude of the Soviet regarding its policy towards capitalism and its political concessions to the bourgeois as follows:

"It means a pawning from war communism to a socialistic exchange of goods. The enormous destruction caused by war and revolution, aggravated by bad harvests in 1920, made a change necessary in view of the impossibility of reconstructing the large industries under old conditions.

"An exchange of goods means free trade, which in turn means capitalism. This is not dangerous to proletarian power, for the proletariat still retains power. It means only the holding of transportation and large industries. I believe experience will show that the measures were right."

GIRL IS DYING FROM BURNS

Lillian Corenti of West End Badly Burned in Attempt to Strike Light

Sixteen-year-old Lillian Corenti of No. 42½ Pitts street, West End, is dying at the Relief Hospital from burns received in attempting to light the gas in a room of her home.

A filmy part of the girl's dress caught fire when the flame spurted from the gas jet and spread rapidly over her arms and body. She shrieked in agony and, running in a panic of fear, spread the fire.

Members of the family seized her and extinguished the fire. Patrolman Matthew King rushed her to the hospital, where her case was pronounced serious and her name placed on the danger list.

JAWING FOR AMERICA—Twenty years ago Nellie M. Horton of Cleveland invented pepsin gum, and the jaws of Americans have increased the industry to $75,000,000 proportions. The tid-bit is made from chicle gum of the sasseberry tree of South A[illegible]ca. Photos show (above) kneading the chicle ght) girl packing finished product by ma- hinery. (Int.)

HERO LEADER — John G. Emery of Grand Rapids, Mich., who is slated to succeed Colonel Fred Galbraith, killed in auto accident, as commander of American Legion. He is a real estate dealer. Fought overseas. (Int.)

FORE FOR ONE!—Miss Edith Cummings, one of the star American women golfers, making a classy chip shot against her British competitors in the recent meet abroad.

SPUN LACE AND GRACE—Here is one of the prettiest veils of the Summer season, piquantly draped on the face of Jean Tolley. Over a small turban it enhances the mystery and charm of the face. Despite the intricacy of the mesh, it is cool and comfortable. (U. & U.)

SILENT TRIBUTE — Maharajah Holkar, ruler of Indore (left), who visited the graves of the U. S. war dead at Seringes-et-Nesles. He is escorted by Colonel John West. (K. & H).

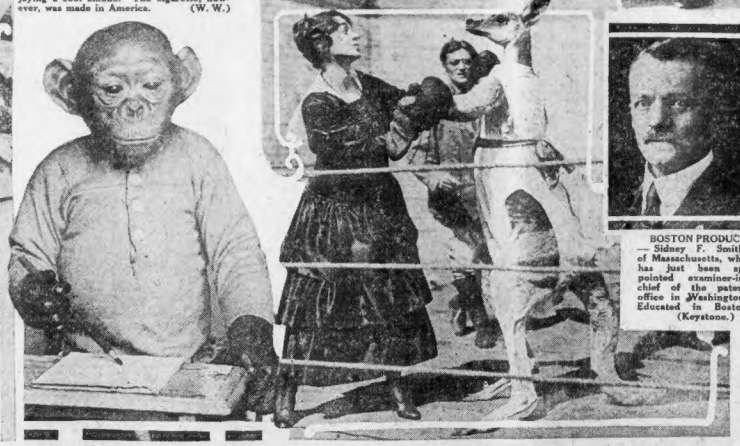
DRY! Roy S. Haynes of Ohio, who has entered upon his duties as prohibition commissioner, succeeding John F. Kramer. He is regarded as a man of boundless energy and ability. (K. & H.)

GOTTA LIGHT? A charming Armenian beauty, garbed in her national costume, enjoying a cool smoke. The cigarette, however, was made in America. (W. W.)

BLOOD AND IRON—The gruelling finish of the English Derby in which "Humorist," on the right, won first place. "Craig on Cran" is less than a neck behind the winner, the jockey lashing him with the short whip. Just what is the dividing line between a horse race and cruelty? (Keystone.)

TROP MOUTARDE! These three girls were among those who passed the test as mail truck drivers at Philadelphia. Landed jobs because they refused to speed. Hazel Bogardus (at wheel), Mary Mahood and Ethel Wood. Good idea for Boston office to follow. (Int.)

TELL ME, PRETTY MAIDEN—Where did you get that suit? Florence Kennedy of Neptune Beach, Cal., in the garb most popular among the mermaids at the West coast resorts. (W W.)



YOUR NAME, PLEASE? Meet "John Willie," four-year-old chimpanzee, writing his daily love letter. John lives at Kensington, England, and displays considerable intelligence, in spite of British influence. (W. W.)

ON THE HOP—Many kangaroos have been taught the art celebrated by Messrs. Dempsey and Carpentier, but none have attained the skill and gentleness (sometimes) that this [illegible] has. He is here shown boxing with a woman and instead of flinging out his powerful forefoot, he parried her blows and otherwise treated her with gentleness.

BOSTON PRODUCT — Sidney F. Smith, of Massachusetts, who has just been appointed examiner-in-chief of the patent office in Washington. Educated in Boston (Keystone.)

HOMEWARD BOUND — Admiral Sims, on way to America, and his wife, arriving at St. Paul's Cathedral, London, for the unveiling of a bust of George Washington. (U. & U.)

WINGED FEET—Behold the queen of the sea and her two ladies in waiting! Charlotte Boyle (centre) broke a world's record for 150 yards at the opening of the new Brighton Beach swimming pool. Florence Briscoe (left) and Alice Lord are without rivals in their class (W. W.)

JUNE AND GRADUATION—The thrill of receiving a diploma is today the experience of thousands of girls and boys all over the country, but their happiness is no greater than that of the 25 policewomen of New York who received their "sheepskins." Photo shows Police Chaplain Wade presenting Mrs. Ethel Corbin with the coveted document (Int.)

MARINES WILL 'HIT DECK'

Celebrate Belleau Wood Day With Parade, Sports and Pageant Tomorrow

Thirty-eight athletic events are down on the program for the Victory celebration to be held in Harvard stadium tomorrow afternoon under the auspices of the Massachusetts Marine Corps Association. The proceeds of the affair are to be used to construct a memorial building to the marines of Boston.

Tomorrow is Belleau Wood Day, anniversary of that day when the marine corps became immortal in World War history, and the marines of the Bay State are determined to make it a day to be remembered all over Massachusetts.

Thousands are expected to pack the Stadium and to line up along the route of the big procession in Boston which is scheduled to open the affair. The parade is due to start at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Military and naval organizations will take part, with floats representing the campaigns in which the devil dogs have won their spurs. The marines wear such things.

In the Stadium there will be a pageant representing the participation of the corps in foreign lands. Two marines also will take part in the big show.

LIST OF EVENTS.

The following is the list of athletic events and other features:

[illegible]

There will be two 440-yard runs. The first will be for the regular N. C. A. championship. The second will be open to select the [illegible] for the Oxford-Cambridge-Harvard-Yale meet on July 9. Opening Battle Finds Rival Managers Picking Star Twirlers

By Nick Flatley

Red Sox and Tigers celebrated the

Cubs pitchers are not impressing the universe these days, but they have enough to get along with, when the Tiger artillery gets working together

Only a couple of years back, a Tiger appearance meant standing room only at the orchard. Yesterday, perfect for baseball, gave some 1,000 spectators present.

The Red Sox are at least as good a ball team as the Tigers, but too much inclined to take things for granted. A little of the visitors' batting spirit would attract the crowds back to the orchard.

Elmer Myers restrained the Yanks

Big Ed Lafitte was waiting the signal for home base. He has been the mainstay of the Browns' pitching staff for two years.

Babe Ruth, the Yankee, former Penn League star and pitcher for Toledo, has had several conferences with Heydler of the Baseball International. Heydler is said not to favor the services of the athlete for the Summer months.

The Suburban League closes its opening month of the eight teams playing their first games. Little is known of Dorchester outfit with the right to second place since Newton High.

New York scribes are carefully picking the team that will represent Gotham in the Inter-City game to be played in this city. The contest is booked for July 2 at Fenway Park.

After the contest the Boston team has games arranged with the cream of the New York and States. Some are derived from such games with a view towards a scholarship fund each had on the team having intentions of entering college.

Munson Keystone sacker of the Marblehead team will be among those trying out against the New Yorkers. He is playing at the middle sack this season and has proven an ace on the second baseman of these parts.

Bill Howard'ih, who pitched the English High team to a victory over its old rival, Latin School, made his a banner day for the Montgomery Street School. English's victory on both the track and diamond brought many big smiles to the faces of the old "grads."

Sunny Foley and Walter Gautreau, members of the winning Cambridge Latin team, have decided to enter Dartmouth College. They may, however, spend a year at Dean Academy before entering the Hanover Institution.

BILL BRENNAN PICKS JACK

Gives Carpentier Credit for Being Fast and Clever, but Says He Can Be Hit

By Bill Brennan.

(Written Exclusively for Pictorial Service)

I watched four of Kaufmann's partners poke jab after jab into Jack Dempsey today. If Jack connected with his wallops as easily as he missed most, a Frenchman will [illegible] third or fourth round.

I am a down-and-outer with an open mind. [illegible] I've ever seen [illegible] But after watching [illegible] rounds I'm absolutely [illegible] he hasn't got the [illegible] qualities to stand up [illegible] a bull like Jack Dempsey.

He's fast as lightning and one of the cleverest boxers I ever saw, but there's a difference between boxing and fighting, and Carpentier is going up against a man who is not only a clever boxer but a born fighter. Barring miracles and accidents, I can see only one finish, and that's a decision that it will come before the fifth round.

I think the only chance Carpentier could have with Dempsey would be to be so quick and clever that the champion couldn't get to him at all.

[illegible] while I watched him with his [illegible] seemed to see [illegible] fade away.

The only man he mixed with was [illegible] Frenchman so-called [illegible] He's really nearer a [illegible] he is in the ring. [illegible] who was [illegible] but no genius of a [illegible] had [illegible] graceful [illegible] Of course, [illegible] most at will. [illegible] him back, [illegible] a matter of swapping [illegible] with Dempsey, [illegible]

The next man on was the heavyweight Journee. Against him Carpentier proved to be wonderfully shifty on his feet and able to hit the big man with either hand from almost any position. But Journee occasionally hit Georges, too—once or twice in the stomach just on the light weight had. And you must remember that Dempsey is 100 per cent. harder than Journee.

Carpentier's good. But he isn't good enough to beat Dempsey. [illegible] as made it by the present American standards.

A Rabbit's Foot

THE superstition that a rabbit's foot brings good luck is a very widespread one. Occult authorities say that it must be the left hind foot of a rabbit, killed by a negro in a country graveyard in the dark of the moon.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. Forbes

A man of eighty-four has just been made president of a well-known company. This suggests the question: "At what age are men capable of doing their best work in the business world?"

* * *

We frequently read of young men in their thirties being placed in charge of important industries. "America is the young man's country," is a popular saying.

Yet a very thorough investigation into this subject reveals that most of the very biggest jobs are not held by youngish or even middle-aged men.

Most of the conspicuously important positions are today filled by men of sixty, sixty-five, seventy and upwards.

The records reveal that the theory that a man's most productive decade is between forty and fifty is wrong. The facts prove that leaders do their biggest work after they have passed fifty. Many if not most, men who have scaled the heights of success have done their best work between the ages of fifty-five and sixty-five.

* * *

Here are a few interesting facts culled from the researches I have been making into this subject of ages:

I once analyzed the careers of the fifty men voted the foremost leaders in American business and finance, and their average age was sixty-one.

The biggest business job of all in America, the chairmanship of the two-billion-dollar United States Steel Corporation, is held by a man who is seventy-three, E. H. Gary. True, he has occupied this position for twenty-one years, yet he was past fifty before he, in co-operation with others, undertook the formation of America's first billion-dollar enterprise.

The most powerful banker in America is one whose name rarely appears in print and whose personality is almost unknown to the public.

This banker is George F. Baker, head of the First National Bank of New York, the bosom crony of the late J. P. Morgan, and a factor of tremendous importance alike in the financial, railroad and industrial world. Mr. Baker is in his eighty-second year.

Charles M. Schwab is, in a sense, a shining exception to the general rule. He became the "boy president" of the United States Steel Corporation at its formation, although he was then only thirty-nine. Even so, however, Schwab's accomplishments since have dwarfed his earlier record.

Frank A. Vanderlip is another human plant that flowered relatively early in life; he was elected president of the largest bank in America when only forty-five, but his real fame has come since that time.

Another man who came prominently to the front unusually early in life is Henry P. Davison; he was admitted to partnership in J. P. Morgan & Co. when he had just passed forty. But here also it is true that his greatest work has been done the age of forty-five. Davison's crowning achievement—his organization and administration of the American Red Cross during the World War—was undertaken after he had turned fifty.

The average age of the twenty-eight men who have been President of the United States has been between fifty-four and fifty-five when they took office, and their average age at death has been a few months under seventy.

Commodore Vanderbilt was worth only $30,000 when forty. The original John Jacob Astor made his greatest mark late in life. Stephen Girard did not enter the banking business on a large scale until he was past sixty. John D. Rockefeller was not such a towering figure at forty or even at fifty, although by then he had laid extraordinarily broad, sound foundations.

J. P. Morgan did not raise his greatest monument, the United States Steel Corporation, until he was sixty-four, and he did his biggest work after that. Andrew Carnegie was between fifty and sixty before the Carnegie Steel Co. became an industrial giant.

The late E. H. Harriman was an obscure Stock Exchange broker until he reached fifty. At sixty he was master of an ocean-to-ocean railway system and recognized as the most dynamic factor in the country's railroad transportation. Harriman's colossal fortune (between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000) was practically all made in the last dozen years of his life.

Harriman's principal rival, the late James J. Hill, was forty before he entered the railroad business and, like Harriman, he made his biggest mark after reaching fifty.

The late Alexander J. Cassatt retired from active work (as engineer) when the directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad importuned him to take over direction of the whole system.

Theodore N. Vail was sixty-five when he was called back to rescue the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. from threatened disaster and he did his greatest work between the age of sixty-five and seventy-five. At forty Henry Ford was unknown. Edward L. Doheny, the "oil king," was broke at forty; at sixty-six he is today doing bigger things than ever before. John H. Patterson, although past seventy-five, is still actively directly the mammouth National Cash Register Co. Edison is seventy-four and still very much in the ring.

So, if gray hairs may be appearing in our heads and we have not yet accomplished anything very big, there is still hope for us.

LARGE LOSSES BY LEADERS

Many Issues Sell at Their Lowest Prices for the Year to Date

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak in New York late in the forenoon, prices being at the lowest levels. Trading was active, first hour transactions approximating 236,000 shares. Call money opened at 5½ per cent. and could be obtained outside of the exchange, it is reported, as low as 5 per cent. But the abundance did not strengthen the securities market. Foreign exchange rate were higher at the start. Demand sterling began with 2¾ cents and sat $3.72¾. Other opening quotations were: French francs demand, .0317, up .0013; lire, .053, up .0004; marks demand ads cables, .01445, up .00014.

WEAK AT OPENING.

Stocks were weak at the opening and continued to descend during the first hour, the recessional being punctuated by halts and a lower level being reached after each pause. Within an hour many issues sold at new 1921 lows, including Car & Foundry, American Locomotive, Baldwin, Chesapeake & Ohio, Corn Products, U. S. Steel, Replogle, Pierce Arrow preferred, Sumatra, and Texas Co. Atlantic Gulf sold at a record low for the New York Stock Exchange. Equipment issues, which showed little change at the start, became decidedly weak. Sugar issues were in most demand than during the week, their firm tone as a class up to midmorning. American Sugar receded a fraction. Rails, motors, steels and tobaccos all sold off at once and continued to sag. Oils were mixed in movement, but under a downward trend.

MEXICAN PETE ERRATIC.

Mexican Petroleum was active and had an erratic movement. Within an hour it ranged from a loss of three points to a gain of more than two. Pan American was up from a fraction to two points during that period, having more consistent support than most stocks. Northern Pacific showed a small gain. Crucible was the weakest steel and Chesapeake & Ohio sagged the most among rails. In the second hour Bethlehem B sold at a record low price. Strombergs was among the leaders of the decline, dropping nearly four points. Louisville & Nashville sold up to 111 on the announcement that a stock dividend is intended, but swung lost most of its gain. The seasoning of Crucible was due to a reduction of its dividend rates, it declaring a 1 per cent. instead of a 2 per cent. disbursement on common.

TOBACCO ISSUES IN SHARP DROP

By BROADAN WALL
Registered U. S. Patent Office.

New York, June 17.—The decline in the stock market has become so severe that wealthy speculators and operators who have been on the bull side are finding themselves in distress. They have reached the point where they are investing out the bullard which consists of high-grade securities.

On good authority it can be stated that one operator whose name was mentioned months ago has let go of a substantial block of Tobacco shares which have been taken by the insiders of the Tobacco companies who have the greatest faith in their securities. This operator is also understood to have let go of some oil stocks, one a high prices issue and the other a security which sells under 25.

The morals of the financial district has been greatly weakened by the continued break in prices.

A further break of eleven points in Mexican Petroleum, to the new low price of 103, yesterday, unsettled the stock market, which disregarded the reduction in the discount rate announced by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and declaration of the regular Northern Pacific dividend. Sugar shares continued under pressure and made new low prices.

A new and favorable development was the appearance of heavy selling orders in the tobacco shares, causing American Tobacco to break six points and other tobaccos five and three points.

Liquidation of a weak account in the tobaccos accounted for this selling. Inside interests of the tobacco companies were the chief buyers of the stocks offered.

Dividend Declarations

Northern Pacific declared quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent., payable August 1 to stock of record July 1.

Liquidation of a weak account in the tobaccos accounted for this selling. Inside interests of the tobacco companies were the chief buyers of the stocks offered.

Safety Car Heating & Lighting, declared quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent., payable July 15 to holders of record June 25.

Philadelphia Co. declared dividend of 1½ per cent. on common, payable July 30, stock of record July 1.

American Typefounders Co. declared quarterly dividends of 1 per cent. on common and 1 per cent. as first preferred, payable September 1; stock of record August 20.

Wilson & Co. have declared quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on preferred, payable July 15, stock of record June 30.

Atlantic Coast Line Railroad declared semiannual dividend of 2½ per cent., payable July 1 to holders of record June 20.

Nashua Manufacturing Co. declared quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent., payable July 1 to holders of record June 24.

Acadia Mills have declared a quarterly dividend of $2 per share, payable July 1 to holders of record June 14.

BANKS CALLING FOR PAYMENT

Demand for Loan Settlements Is Causing Liquidation of Stocks

By C. B. EVANS

Copyright, 1921.

Chicago, June 17.—There are fewer amateurs or small margin men struggling about in the suds of stock market than at any time for years. The most distinctive margin clerks in these days are in the banks, that so many stocks have been transferred to these institutions as collateral for loans. But the banks are more particular about margins than the brokers, or at least, they ought to be, and there is now a considerable shaking out of the ostensible owners of these stocks. This sort of thing is, of course, not confined to stock trading. The banks are demanding that many people carried by them through emergent times that they pay all or a portion of their loans and the consequence is the sale of property of one kind and another to realize the necessary payments. Then, of course many a merchant who is hard luck in his business has to pick something out of his box that will yield money. We have no panic and are likely to have none. We have and we shall have a relentless liquidation.

BANKERS ARE CRITICAL.

The critical business of bankers and other financiers extended to bonds, those traditionally choice objects of investment; and the engraved beauty of these documents is likely to be marred in the view of the general investor. A number of eminent financiers have not only been reproved by the association for offering to an eager public securities which are not considered as complying with strict requirements but have been obliged to redeem those securities with funds out of their own pockets. Some bonds in the main are not of that character which now have a willed look. The old American way of co-operation has largely taken the form of bond issues and we all know what a tremendous volume of stocks subscribed or given to stockholders, has been distributed in the past few years.

Some of the bond issues have been practically forced simply because the banks refused longer to carry the companies concerned. Those companies have been completely in this category. Many of them have been pulled into stable conditions. It is believed that there are two three companies which will pass into the hands of receivers. That, however, may not mean that they are ruined at all, but that they will have a temporary rest from their present troubles.

NEMESIS TO LOOSE.

A lot of evil water has been found in the deep wells of financial wisdom by the side of which we all have sat these many years. Recent events have pulled up many of these wells or filled them with debris. Witness the disappearance of distinguished persons from our view who formerly told us what to do in the line of investment or speculation. No more shall we go to those wells. And Nemesis is loose among the financiers. What Chicago hears about great New Yorkers in these days would fill quite a book. Some of it is not to be printed or, if it is printed, the book should be in the shape of ex-purgatorius. Young persons please keep aloof.

The stock the student of the market does not know which one to pick to. Really, within certain limits, it makes little difference.

The whole list continues to decline. If, geologically, the continent should sink out of sight, it would not matter whether a particular part of it were mountain or marsh. (N. B.—This continent is not going to sink below the present level for the present. This information "comes from sources believed to be reliable, but is not guaranteed.")

But price, for the time being, is not the important thing to the holder of a security. The question is whether that security will continue to pay its dividend or interest. A great many of the securities now prostrated with anaemi will continue to pay their dividends for an indefinite number of years. One Chicago corporation, which is too modest to have its name published, is declared by the officials to be doing 75 per cent. as much business as that of last year, which was the greatest in its history, and it "could close up for three years and still pay its eight per cent. dividend"

Cities Service Securities

Bankers' Trust Shares

The recent decision of the Cities Service Directorate to temporarily pay its dividends in scrip has caused considerable agitated marketwise, in our opinion.

There is little doubt but that the great dividend paying record of this Corporation, together with its known large assets, will quickly see all scrip issues redeemed and in the meantime the scrip should command a high market price.

We have ready for free distribution a comprehensive review of Cities Service, featuring President Doherty's lengthy address to the Directors on the subject and to the declaration that for the time being dividends would be paid in scrip.

Present holders or contemplated purchasers will be well repaid by studying this Review.

VETERAN COURT OFFICER RETIRES

William Oscar Armstrong, an officer of the Superior Court during twenty-nine years consecutively, has been retired on pension of one-half pay. He was appointed by the late Sheriff John B. O'Brien, and was the first and only negro ever appointed a court policeman. He was born in Oberlin, Ohio, in 1847 and came to Boston in 1865. He was elected two terms to the Boston City Council and two terms to the Legislature.

FOUR HURT BY IRON STRIP'S FALL

Four persons were injured on Court street when a strip of galvanized iron, thirty feet long, used as a lining on the coping of the Scollay Building, fell. Scores of people were endangered. The injured: Marie Rennuth, No. 24 Newbury street, West Somerville; Thomas S. Hazelton, No. 97A Shirley street, Winthrop; Francis O. Aiesa, No. 5 Longfellow street, Dorchester, and Mrs. Percival B. Lofstoy, No. 1099 Bennington street, East Boston.

CHICAGO HOTELS CUTTING RATES

Chicago, June 17.—Effective Monday two of Chicago's largest hotels, the Morrison and the Hotel Sherman, will make drastic reductions in food and room rates. The Morrison will chop its prices 50 per cent. and the Sherman will lower its charges 25 per cent.

Akron, O., June 17.—A cut of 20 per cent. in rents is announced by the Portage, Akron's leading hotel.

The National Biscuit Co. announces a reduction of 25 per cent. in baked goods.

Mary Garden Dominates Her Grand Opera Audiences

The tenth installment of Mary Garden's picture of her own life as sketched by the famous opera singer herself for the readers of the Hearst newspapers is given below:

By MARY GARDEN.

"How do I win my audiences?

"I DOMINATE THEM!

"I walk on the stage WITH THE CONSCIOUSNESS OF A CONQUEROR . . . and instantly I know that I am one. As long as I retain that consciousness I can sway my audience any way I like . . . but let it slip from me . . . and I have to fight to get it back.

"How do I obtain that consciousness?

"Well, to begin with, I never go on until I am ready to give a perfect performance . . . then when I step onto the stage that confidence sends through me a thrill which I in turn send through the audience.

"And another thing . . . that consciousness is not in my mind . . . it is here (the Garden right hand placed over the region of the diaphragm) . . . the sensitiveness of that region intensifying the consciousness infinitely more than my mind might.

"Also this control leaves my mind free to think with and my eyes free to express my thoughts.

"As a matter of absolute fact, the reaction of an audience is nothing more or less than the reflection of your own consciousness . . . If you can send a thrill through your own soul you can more or less audience in exactly the same way.

Artist Should Be In Perfect Condition.

"You know, these artists who go on with halting, hesitant steps make a terrible mistake. They foolishly expect the audience to help them out and encourage them . . . instead of realizing that it is the audience who must be inspired. Instead of coming on with a faltering step they should come on boldly, with a full consciousness of their ability to give a perfect performance.

"And with this idea in mind, no artist should ever appear on the stage unless her mind is clear and her body in perfect condition. Any flaw in her own condition is bound to be reflected in her performance and it may even mar a characterization that might otherwise be perfect.

Never Sings During Day She Is to Appear

"On the day that I am to appear in the evening I never sing a note during the day. When it is only a rehearsal in the afternoon then I vocalize for perhaps ten minutes in the morning. Never more.

"Even when I am studying I never exert my voice more than an hour and a half a day. Enough in studying an opera I often devote seven hours a day to work . . . I do most of it in my head. I consider that absolute overexertion is a far more important phase of voice culture than anything else.

"A voice that is God-given does not require to be regulated by petty laws . . . but it does have to be given sufficient rest and time to care for itself.

"Keep Cool" Key to Success in Opera

"At rehearsals I always sing full voice. I have found that singing half voice frequently causes the omission of the plain tones completely lost in the orchestra that escape when least expected on the night of the performance.

"Although most singers have adopted the custom of singing full voice at rehearsals, it is practically impossible to find a tenor who will do it. It may be I am prodigal with his high notes, but it is very awkward for the woman singing with him.

"If I were asked the key to success I would answer, 'Keep cool.' That principle has made possible my success, and success is everywhere the same.

"A cool head will enable you to see opportunities and prepare yourself to take advantage of them. If I had not a cool head I might have fled from the stage of the Opera Comique the night I made my debut in Paris when it suddenly dawned on me that I had never sung with an orchestra before!

"I had then my first and only case of stage fright . . . but think what I might have done if I had not had a cool head at my command."

Give Maximum Penalty to Law-Breaking Autoists

Enforcement of Existing Laws Good Starter in Effort to Check Frightful Death Toll of Children

Frank A. Goodwin, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, calling attention to the frightful death tolls of automobiles—70 children killed and 936 injured up to June 1, this year—pleads for greater publicity and some civic movement for greater safety.

As a starter, why not rigidly enforce the existing laws? Why not promptly arrest every reckless, law-breaking driver and then give him the maximum penalty instead of the minimum penalty?

Are not the present laws probably ample? Have you talked with the judges who enforce the laws, Mr. Goodwin? What do they say? Is that not an immediate solution?

If our courts gave every offender the maximum penalty would that not end reckless driving with its resultant damage and deaths?

As we view it, this reckless and unnecessary destruction of life and property can be ended promptly by the courts before whom offenders are brought.

The prompt arrest and vigorous prosecution of offenders, and the infliction, in every case where recklessness, ignorance or disregard of the laws is shown, of the maximum penalty will end this horrible and impossible situation.

This newspaper, and we are sure all the other Boston newspapers, will take pleasure in giving the widest publicity to such definite and vigorous action by the police and by the courts.

Hitting Home Runs

It Takes Practice Just as It Does for Any Other Worth-While Accomplishment

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

They have measured Babe Ruth's record drive at the Polo Grounds June 14. The ball landed 475 feet from the home plate.

It would take a good runner almost a minute to run that distance. If he ran as far as the ball soared in its parabolic course ere it landed in the centre field bleachers, it would take him more than a minute.

This evening, when you go home, see how far you can throw a ball. You will probably be regarded by your neighbors as a wonder if you can make it go in two throws as far as Babe sent it with one swing of his powerful bat.

Babe does these things every few days. But he didn't do them till he had trained and practiced long. He couldn't continue to do them if he didn't keep fit.

So you see there is quite a moral in that famous home run. If Babe played ball as many persons work, mechanically, listlessly, waiting for the whistle or the clock, he wouldn't be knocking his way to fame and fortune—it would soon be "back to the bushes" for him.

Why not try for a home run record yourself in the daily game by which you earn your living?

It makes all the difference in the world whether you play as if it were a game or view it merely as a demnition grind.

Equals or Superiors

Mrs. Stillman Knits and Chats

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

Mrs. Stillman, knitting demurely, told about Mr. Stillman. She would not speak unkindly of him, but she did feel bound to say that he was "worse than a Bolshevist, and tried to fling the wreckage of his own home all over the world."

Mrs. Stillman says: "He (you know who "he" is) went away with poor Mrs. Leeds because he tired of living with his equals."

"Poor Mrs. Leeds" will probably have a swift and powerful "comeback" for that.

Men often go away because they are tired of living with their SUPERIORS; they rarely leave their equals voluntarily. Men and water want to find their own level, and they both find it.

Now, if Mrs. Leeds will knit and chat, and if Mr. Stillman will peruse, poised above the ticker or the niblick, we shall all know "why they leave home."

Bay State Needs the Recall

The bitter and important controversy between Attorney-General Allen and District Attorney Tufts illustrates the need of the recall in Massachusetts. When we adopted the Initiative and Referendum we ought to have adopted the recall, which constitutes the third of the three companion reforms that the progressive Western States are adopting to democratize their representative institutions.

Consider how it would work in Massachusetts in this murderous row between two important public officers, both of whom, so far as we know, have good records. Attorney-General Allen charges District Attorney Tufts with a long series of faults running from indiscretions to grave offenses. District Attorney Tufts replied by charging Attorney-General Allen with an attempt to use the powers and prestige of his office to take revenge upon a political enemy and to get rid of a political rival. The charges against either are serious and disqualifying, if true.

If we had the recall, both men could be compelled to present their evidence against each other to the public and the people could then decide which party was at fault and could remove him from office immediately. But now our institutions, unsymmetrically developed, afford the most one-sided processes.

Attorney-General Allen could proceed to indict Mr. Tufts for the offences which are indictable in the charges which he makes against the district attorney and Mr. Tufts would then have his right of a trial by jury on the criminal charges. But Mr. Allen prefers to use the language of an antiquated statute purporting to give the Supreme Court the right to remove a district attorney whose office is created by the same Constitution which created the Supreme Court itself. Therefore an appointed body is embarrassed by being asked on the authority of a statute to remove from his constitutional office an important public officer elected by a direct vote of the people who might very well overrule a decision of the Supreme Court by re-electing him to the same office after taking a totally different view of his conduct from that taken by the Supreme Court.

We are sorry that the Supreme Court feels obliged to take jurisdiction. The recall would have saved much embarrassment, but whatever the result in this case may be the precedent is anomalous and bad.

We do not wish to be understood as minimizing the importance of Attorney-General Allen's charges. They ought to be thoroughly investigated by some tribunal, both for Mr. Tufts' sake and that of the community.

British Bees Are Dying

LONDON, June 17.—The British bee-keeping industry is threatened with disaster, owing to the prevalence of disease among bees.

England, whose bee-keepers formerly provided enough honey for the home markets, now imports $5,000,000 worth of honey a-year.

Bee men declare that instead of importing this amount England should produce $30,000,000 worth of honey annually, thus having a quantity to export. C. B. Bartlett, a well-known bee expert, says:

"What will happen to the British bee-keeping industry? There is the greatest need for the Ministry of Agriculture to tackle the problem if the industry is to be placed on a profitable basis.

"A special bill has been proposed, severely criticised and withdrawn. Under it we should have been flooded with the new host of inspectors, who would attempt to make up for lack of knowledge by a great display of activity. But from this and the introduction of foreign bees no real improvement could be expected. The remedy lies in other ways.

"I firmly believe that the modern teaching that swarming is undesirable is responsible for most of the ills which have befallen the bee, and the others are due, in a lesser degree, to unwise artificial queen rearing and the insane preservation of the unfit by artificial feeding. Consequently the bee world is full of angry, disillusioned owners of empty hives instead of busy, prosperous bee men as of old. Probably there is no direct net profit from the keeping of bees in Britain today; which is a great pity, because there is no better honey than our own. Instead of importing honey by the million pounds' worth, we should grow our own. Probably the value of the honey which might be produced in Britain exceeds 6,000,000 pounds."

ALL IN GOOD TIME

It was at a children's picnic and they were playing each youngster pretending to be his or her favorite animal. The woods echoed with grunting, barking and crowing—but one little girl sat silent.

"Why don't you play?" asked one of the teachers.

"Please, miss, I am playing," she replied.

"What are you, then?"

"Please, miss, I'm a hen, and I'm laying an egg. When I've finished I shall cackle!"

The Discontented Manicure Scissors

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

SAID the manicure scissors one day;
"The shears always have their own way,
And I think it absurd
That I am deterred
From entering into life's fray.

"My task might be jolly for snails,
But I must confess that it fails
To give pleasure to me;
I am sick as can be
Of snipping the ends of pink tails.

"I want to do work like the shears!"
So the scissors set out, it appears,
And, very much wroth,
They tried to cut cloth,
And so split themselves open, my dears.

And the cloth—well, you should have seen that!
It looked as if gnawed by a rat.
Now, little folks, you
Must not think you can do
Whatever your elders are at.

Sportsman's Paradise

Mackinac Island, a tiny foothold of rock, heaved up from the bottom of Lake Huron, lies just at the Huron end of the Straits of Mackinac, which connects that body of water with Lake Michigan. In the centre the rock island attains a height of some 300 feet and surrounded by the crystal depths of those far northern waters, the heat of Summer is tempered by some flavor of the Arctic storms that make up its long Winter.

For the fisherman Mackinac is a forestaste of heaven. In the cool northern waters of the lake and straits swarm uncounted millions of the gamiest fish that ever fought translation into the upper air. It is no uncommon thing for the expert fisherman to bring in a boatload of game fish as a result of one day's effort with his rod.—In June Motor.

MOLECULES GYRATE IN MAGNETIC BODIES

By Garrett P. Serviss.

YOU may, perhaps, have been impressed by the uncanny qualities of a gyroscope. You set a little wheel, heavy for its size, spinning swiftly on a projecting axle, held horizontally, upon a fixed point, around which it can be turned like a spoke. Immediately the wheel, instead of falling, begins to swing in a circle around the point on which the end of the axle rests, while the other, unsupported, end is carried around through the air by the wheel. The whole performance looks like magic the first time you see it, and it never afterward loses its magical suggestions.

These curious effects are rendered far more intense, and become even startling, if a heavy gyroscope wheel is set spinning in a closed box.

Resists Efforts

If you take such a box in your hands and try to turn it about in various directions you are astonished to find that it seems to brace itself somehow on nothing and so to resist your efforts. It will even make seeming starts in contrary directions. You can hardly persuade yourself, and if you were an ignorant savage you would not think of trying to persuade yourself, that there is not something supernatural about that box. It seems to be either alive or to be mysteriously governed by the will of some sentient being.

Nevertheless the gyroscope is no mystery to the physicist—at least no more a mystery than everything else, for, with all his science, he has to admit that he doesn't understand the final way of nature's actions. The physicist explains mathematically how the pull of gravity on the spinning wheel produces an "unbalanced torque" which causes the wheel, instead of falling as it would do if not spinning, to whirl horizontally around the supported end of the axle.

Strange Conduct

But our purpose here is not to explain in detail the co-operation of forces that causes the singular conduct of the gyroscope, but simply to remind the reader of what that conduct is; for recent investigations indicate that the molecules of magnetic bodies are little gyroscopes, and that many of the peculiarities of magnetic action are explicable by assuming that these molecules behave just like gyroscopic wheels when an electric current is flowing around them. Magnetism and electricity are connected by the curious relation that an electric current flowing through a wire causes a magnetic needle, held near, to set itself at right angles to the current; and the idea that an electric charge and a magnetic pole behave in a gyrostatic manner with respect to one another is not new.

SCRATCH THE SURFACE.

When you are in the company of a man who is well posted on a certain subject do not try to impress him with the fact that you also are quite well informed on the same subject.

It should be much more profitable to you to ask him questions which will bring additional knowledge to you.

You have nothing to gain by a display of knowledge, trying to make a man think you know considerable, because you cannot fool a man who really knows.

Your form of expressing yourself is bound to give you away.

Then the man who knows does not volunteer information to a man who tries to work a bluff that he knows, but most men will give out some good pointers to the person who, by asking questions, admits that he is interested and desires to learn.

Thousands and thousands of men have tried to make a success of their lives because they were unwilling to admit their ignorance along lines that they figure they should know a great deal.

Undoubtedly you can recall instances where you might have obtained something of great benefit to you—something you could have used to advantage later—if you had accepted a chance to learn.

A veneer of knowledge amounts to little.

ALTRUISM IS TODAY BEYOND REACH

By Dr. Charles Fleischer,

"ALTHERISM"—that is all that altruism means.

But by that token it asks us to live towards a standard of ideality which we are not likely to reach for a few millennia—if ever.

Oh, yes! One could profess it—if one chose. But one should not even profess what one does not mean to practice.

Plenty of hypercritical professionists that score! Come now, be honest—it would be going some if we loved one another as much as we love ourselves.

Do you remember learning something in your class in physics about the centre of gravity? This is a point in a body from or on which the body can be suspended or poised in equilibrium in any position.

In simpler words, the centre of gravity in any material object or body is its honest-to-goodness-and-no-foolin' point of stability. Einstein could make it clearer—perhaps.

Anyhow, you cannot safely ignore this theoretic-practical point if you want to suspend or poise anything. If you don't find its centre of gravity, it just won't stay put—that's all.

Metaphysical Terms

Well, there is just as unescapable a law dominating our human nature, in fact, it is only the translation of this working theory of physics into metaphysical terms.

There is a centre of gravity for each and all of us in the spiritual realm—or, call it the psychological or mental realm—or what you will. And there is no use in trying to get away from this centre of gravity, either.

Preservation is the first law of nature. We all know that. No use in trying to get away from that! That is our real centre of gravity.

SELF! There is no use in pretending to be ashamed of it. There is no use in profession that you are more concerned for my preservation than for your own. I refuse to believe it!

Yes, we know much of the long story of human martyrdom for a cause, and of the shining record of self-sacrifice. And we bow in reverent admiration before all that registered heroism! Indeed, we know that the annals of human nature (annals to which each of us makes continuous contribution) are rich with splendid proof of our capacity for unselfishness.

We can go even further and accept what the late Peter Kropotkin called the Law of Mutual Aid—at least as far as to recognize in all nature, including human nature, a tendency towards mutuality.

That, however, is not Altruism! It appears that what we call altruism is a vain, though, doubtless well-meaning, attempt to take the centre of gravity out of Self and to locate it in Others.

Very Beautiful

Very beautiful! But it won't work because—it can't!

Yes, yes! It gives you a fine glow of spirit to feel, on occasion, that you have been unselfish and that you have made big sacrifices for others. Here's our tribute of respect!

Yes, my good soldier, you have given a leg for your land! And you were ready to give your life for her. Here's a meed of praise for you—the vast hosts of you!

And all the Grand Army of Mothers, who go down into the dark valley that the race may live—here's heart's praise of love for you!

But, come—be honest! This is not Altruism as a spiritual law of our human nature and human life. This is, at best, only an outburst of heroism—perhaps a flash of the Real Self—that by this method attains momentary self-realization (not self-denial) through identification with a Cause or a Cosmic Purpose which outlasts the individual.

As, for instance, the Child outlives the Mother.

All of which is not argued for the sake of argument. Nor is it meant to make altruism unrespectable and to exalt selfishness.

But in the name of moral honesty. It is a plea for straight thinking. And—yes—the suggestery. It is a plea for straight (since you like the word and the idea), you might at least love others as you love yourself.

Even now there is nothing to prevent this—nothing but ourselves.
